Sir John Robert Seeley,1882 Evidence and Faith Charles Taliaferro,2005-02-28 Taliaferro has written a dynamic narrative history of philosophical reflection on religion from the 17th century to the present with an emphasis on shifting views of faith and the nature of evidence The book begins with the movement called Cambridge Platonism which formed a bridge between the ancient and medieval worlds and early modern philosophy While the book provides an overview of different movements in philosophy it also offers a detailed exposition and reflection on key arguments and the scope is broad from Descartes to contemporary feminist philosophy of religion Religion as Man's Completion Rudolph Michael Binder,1927 The Realities of the Christian Religion Gerald Birney Smith,1918 Cargoes for Crusoes Grant M. Overton,2022-12-30 Excerpt How that I Robinson Crusoe came to be wrecked with others of the ship s company on a Desert Island all being lost save my unworthy self hath in a precise manner been narrated by one D Defoe in the book he saw fit to entitle with my name but his ending is indifferent For novels like Defoe s must have the Happy Ending so styled Yet is the truth often happier far than fiction Being no hand to invent a tale I am content to set down in this place events as I humbly took part in them Let me declare then that here on my Desert Island I for long suffered great loneliness and consequent distress of soul This went on many days Howbeit while sunk very low in my spiritual state and with expectation nearly gone a huge ship passing near labored painfully with a storm by the mercy of God being compelled to throw overboard or as they say at sea to jettison the greater part of her cargo And being thus lightened she stood away from the Island and went on her course safely The same storm cast upon the shore the rich treasure wherewith she had been laden so many wooden boxes or cases packed tightly and well lined which for the most part were washed up undamaged and within scarcely dampened except it may be for an inch or two Coming down to the shore the morning after I stood transfixed with astonishment at the sight of something lying on the sand It was a book Christian Advocate ,1923
