The Long Afterlife of Nikkei Wartime Incarceration Karen M. Inouye, 2018-03-13 The Long Afterlife of Nikkei Wartime Incarceration reexamines the history of imprisonment of U S and Canadian citizens of Japanese descent during World War II Karen M Inouye explores how historical events can linger in individual and collective memory and then crystallize in powerful moments of political engagement Drawing on interviews and untapped archival materials regarding politicians Norman Mineta and Warren Furutani sociologist Tamotsu Shibutani and Canadian activists Art Miki and Mary Kitagawa among others Inouye considers the experiences of former wartime prisoners and their on going involvement in large scale educational and legislative efforts While many consider wartime imprisonment an isolated historical moment Inouye shows how imprisonment and the suspension of rights have continued to impact political discourse and public policies in both the United States and Canada long after their supposed political and legal reversal In particular she attends to how activist groups can use the persistence of memory to engage empathetically with people across often profound cultural and political divides This book addresses the mechanisms by which injustice can transform both its victims and its perpetrators detailing the dangers of suspending rights during times of crisis as well as the opportunities for more empathetic agency

Mapping Generations of Traumatic Memory in American Narratives Dana Mihăilescu,Roxana Oltean,Mihaela Precup,2014-06-12 This volume collects work by several European North American and Australian academics who are interested in examining the performance and transmission of post traumatic memory in the contemporary United States The contributors depart from the interpretation of trauma as a unique exceptional event that shatters all systems of representation as seen in the writing of early trauma theorists like Cathy Caruth Shoshana Felman and Dominick LaCapra Rather the chapters in this collection are in conversation with more recent readings of trauma such as Michael Rothberg s multidirectional memory 2009 the role of mediation and remediation in the dynamics of cultural memory Astrid Erll 2012 Aleida Assman 2011 and Stef Craps focus on postcolonial witnessing and its cross cultural dimension 2013 The corpus of post traumatic narratives under discussion includes fiction diaries memoirs films visual narratives and oral testimonies A complicated dialogue between various and sometimes conflicting narratives is thus generated and examined along four main lines in this volume trauma in the context of multidirectional memory the representation of trauma in autobiographical texts the dynamic of public forms of national commemoration and the problematic instantiation of 9 11 as a traumatic landmark

Asian Americans in an Anti-Black World Claire Jean Kim,2023-06-29 Where do Asian Americans fit into the U S racial order Are they subordinated comparably to Black people or permitted adjacency to whiteness The racial reckoning prompted by the police murder of George Floyd and the surge in anti Asian hate during the COVID 19 pandemic raise these questions with new urgency Asian Americans in an Anti Black World is a groundbreaking study that will shake up scholarly and popular thinking on these matters Theoretically innovative and based on rigorous historical research this provocative book tells us we must consider both anti Blackness and white supremacy and the articulation of the two forces in order to understand U S racial dynamics The construction of Asian Americans as not white but above all not Black has determined their positionality for nearly two centuries How Asian Americans choose to respond to this status will help to define racial politics in the U S in the twenty first century Shadowed Ground Kenneth E. Foote, 2013-12-06 Winner John Brinckerhoff Jackson Prize Association of American Geographers 1997 Shadowed Ground explores how and why Americans have memorialized or not the sites of tragic and violent events spanning three centuries of history and every region of the country For this revised edition Kenneth Foote has written a new concluding chapter that looks at the evolving responses to recent acts of violence and terror including the destruction of the Branch Davidian compound at Waco Texas the Oklahoma City bombing the Columbine High School massacre and the terrorist attacks of 9 11 History of Alaska , Volume II Jonathan M. Nielson, Ph.D., 2018-03-01 The most significant military development to touch Alaska during the interwar years was the advent of air power an innovation that completely altered Alaska s strategic position Suddenly the world became smaller as areas once thought safely distant from potential enemies became vulnerable Nowhere was this more evident than in the Pacific whose countless islands became potential advanced air bases As air technology improved the ability of long range bombers and by the 1930s of carrier aircraft to penetrate American airspace was a development of far reaching significance While such warnings were largely limited to a handful of air power advocates their vocal advocacy constituted nothing less than an insurrection a revolution in military thinking fought against entrenched military conservatism cultural aversion to change fears of budget cuts and War Department lethargy Indeed it was the air power crusader General Billy Mitchell who aggressively fought to convince the War and Navy Departments to embrace the new doctrine of offensive air power Mitchell came to understand Alaska s strategic importance early on Consequently he saw the Aleutians as a vulnerability if left unguarded Japan could creep up and by establishing air dominance take Alaska and Canada s West Coast But he also saw Alaska as a strategic base from which American planes could reduce Tokyo to powder Prophetically in 1923 Mitchell forecast precisely the military threat and strategic arguments that would shape military thinking almost twenty years later I am thinking of Alaska In an air war if we were unprepared Japan could take it away from us first by dominating the sky and creeping up the Aleutians By the mid to late 1930s military and civilian advocates of air power and more visionary strategists were beginning to make their voices heard in Congress and elsewhere decrying Alaska s military vulnerability Between 1933 and 1944 no one was more adamant than Alaska s Delegate in Congress Anthony Joseph Tony Dimond who challenged the nation to defend itself by defending Alaska To Dimond it seemed poor strategy to fortify one pacific base Hawaii while ignoring another Alaska Diamond's campaign was strengthened by passage of the Wilcox Bill sponsored by Representative J Mark Wilcox. D Florida officially known as the National Air Defense Act. This truly significant legislation authorized the location and construction of military airfields throughout the United States as a general defense preparedness measure. Alaska was recognized as one of the nation's six strategic regions and two bases: one at Anchorage, the other at Fairbanks were recommended in part because Alaska was closer to Japan than it is to the center of the continental United States. Fortunately for Alaska defense advocates General Douglas MacArthur stepped down as Chief of Staff of the Army and was replaced by Major General Malin Craig in October 1935. Craig and Brigadier General Stanley D Embick advocated a substantial reconfiguration of Plan Orange, arguing that the Philippines presented an invitation to attack and should be neutralized in favor of defending the Alaska-Hawaii-Panama Triangle. Both the Army and Navy were charged with defending Alaska as far west as Dutch Harbor, and the army pledged to mobilize 6,600 troops in Alaska within a month of attack by Japan. In contemplating the defense of Alaska, the Army General Staff formulated five priority objectives: first, increase the Alaska garrison; second, establish a major base for Army operations near Anchorage; third, develop a network of air bases within Alaska; fourth, garrison these bases with combat troops; and fifth, protect the naval installations at Sitka, Kodiak, and Dutch Harbor. Alaska was about to go to war.

For the city's first two hundred years, the story told at Washington DC's symbolic center, the National Mall, was about triumphant American leaders. Since 1982, when the Vietnam Veterans Memorial was dedicated, the narrative has shifted to emphasize the memory of American wars. In the last thirty years, five significant war memorials have been built on or very nearly on the Mall: The Vietnam Veterans Memorial, the Korean War Veterans Memorial, the Women in Military Service for America Memorial, The National Japanese American Memorial to Patriotism During WWII, and the National World War II Memorial. These have not only transformed the physical space of the Mall but have also dramatically rewritten ideas about U.S. nationalism expressed there. In Sacrificing Soldiers on the National Mall, Kristin Ann Hass examines this war memorial boom, the debates about war and race and gender and patriotism that shaped the memorials, and the new narratives about the nature of American citizenship that they spawned. Sacrificing Soldiers on the National Mall explores the meanings we have made in exchange for the lives of our soldiers and asks if we have made good on our enormous responsibility to them.

Mine Okubo Greg Robinson, Elena Tajima Creef, 2018-07-01 To me, life and art are one and the same, for the key lies in one's knowledge of people and life. In art, one is trying to express it in the simplest, imaginative way, as in the art of past civilizations, for beauty and truth are the only two things which live timeless and ageless. Min Okubo. This is the first book-length critical examination of the life and work of Min Okubo, 1912-2001, a pioneering Nisei artist, writer, and social activist who repeatedly defied conventional role expectations for women and for Japanese Americans over her seventy-year career. Okubo's landmark Citizen 13660, first published in 1946, is the first and arguably best-known autobiographical narrative of the wartime Japanese American relocation and confinement experience Born in Riverside California Okubo was incarcerated by the U S government during World War II first at the Tanforan Assembly Center in California and later at the Topaz War Relocation Center in Utah There she taught art and directed the production of a literary and art magazine While in camp Okubo documented her confinement experience by making hundreds of paintings and pen and ink sketches These provided the material for Citizen 13660 Word of her talent spread to Fortune magazine which hired her as an illustrator Under the magazine s auspices she was able to leave the camp and relocate to New York City where she pursued her art over the next half century This lovely and inviting book lavishly illustrated with both color and halftone images many of which have never before been reproduced introduces readers to Okubo s oeuvre through a selection of her paintings drawings illustrations and writings from different periods of her life In addition it contains tributes and essays on Okubo s career and legacy by specialists in the fields of art history education women s studies literature American political history and ethnic studies essays that illuminate the importance of her contributions to American arts and letters Min Okubo expands the sparse critical literature on Asian American women as well as that on the Asian American experience in the eastern United States It also serves as an excellent companion to Citizen 13660 providing critical tools and background to place Okubo s work in its historical and literary contexts
