Glynis Cooper,2023-03-09 English schoolchildren are taught that Sir Richard Arkwright invented the water frame and was the father of the Industrial Revolution and the factory system That is simply not true The water powered spinning frame and the modern factory system were pioneered in Italy over 300 years before Richard Arkwright was born This book tells the story of how the Industrial Revolution in textile manufacture really began Not in England with Richard Arkwright and the English cotton industry but in Italy with Italian Renaissance engineers and the Italian silk industry Proof lies in the achievements of medieval Italian engineering English archives and English legal case records Italy was the leading technological power in Europe from the 13th to the 17th centuries The Italian Renaissance and the devastation caused by the Black Death 1347-49 brought forth a wealth of technological innovation and invention and the Italians automated much of the production of silk fabrics using water as their power source because there were no longer enough people left alive to carry out the work English organzine was inferior to Italian organzine In the first recorded case of industrial espionage a young Derby engineer resolved to steal Italian silk manufacturing secrets Water powered silk throwing machinery reconstructed by John Lombe from his stolen plans and drawings provided the blueprint for water powered cotton spinning machinery water frame and Cromford Mill built 1771 was modelled on Derby Silk Mill built 1719 This book marks the 300th anniversary of John Lombe's premature death Part of the mystery surrounding his actions is why has the truth been concealed for so long and why has the Italian connection remained unacknowledged It is time to place this episode of history in a proper context to set the record straight and to fully acknowledge the part played by Italy in the English Industrial Revolution
