Excerpt from The Luck of the Bean Rows A Fairy Tale The old man took him on his knee and danced him gently up and down in the way the ladies ride in the Park and said all sorts of droll things to amuse him and the child responded in his own prattling fashion for who would like to seem backward in such jolly talk P Meanwhile the old woman lit up the house with a fire of dry bean pods which gladdened the little body of the newcomer and prepared an excellent bean pap which a spoonful of honey made delicious eating Then she laid him to sleep in his fine white night clothes in the best bed of bean chaff in the house for these poor folk knew nothing of feather beds and eider downs When he was fast asleep There is one thing that bothers me said the old man to his Wife and that is what we are to call this bonny boy for we know neither his parents nor Where he comes from We must call him said the old woman for though she was but a simple peasant she was quick witted The Luck of the Bean rows for it was in our bean field he came to us the best of luck to comfort us in our old age About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such
