The State in Eurasia: Performance in Local and Global Arenas Ms Anita Sengupta, Ms Suchandana Chatterjee, 2012-01-15 Since the emergence of post-Soviet states in the Eurasian space, there has been considerable reflection on the role that the state has played in the local and global arenas. Transformation from being part of the Soviet to independent existence has meant state involvement in the forging of new nations out of disparate identities based on the criteria of national languages, the reinterpretation of historical events, depiction of personality-centric themes, the portrayal of illustrative careers, and the rhetoric of development. This volume focuses on some of the aspects of this involvement through studies of the performative role of the Central Asian states in the arena of politics, diplomacy, culture, historical memory, and their interaction within the Eurasian space. It reflects on ways in which the state reacts to society and how discourses in the field of economy, society, and culture dovetail with or diverge from the political discourse about state building. Relations between formal institutions and informal structures, emerging conceptions of democracy in the context of the Tulip Revolution in Kyrgyzstan, and the disruptive events in western Kazakhstan during the twentieth anniversary of the republic's independence, the nature of bilateral and multilateral alignments among regional and interregional actors are some of the aspects through which the role of the state has been examined by the authors. The volume seeks to address the question of how the state acts as an agent of influence and control, not just on performative traditions but also in the creation of a single community as the basis for a nation.

Artisans in Early Imperial China Anthony J. Barbieri-Low, 2021-10-07 An award-winning study of the ancient world is now back in print. Early China is best known for the dazzling material artifacts it has left behind. These terracotta figures, gilt bronze lamps, and other material remnants of the Chinese past, unearthed by archaeological excavations, are often viewed without regard to the social context of their creation; yet they were made by individuals who contributed greatly to the foundations of early Chinese culture. With Artisans in Early Imperial China, Anthony Barbieri-Low combines historical, epigraphic, and archaeological analysis to refocus our gaze from the glittering objects and monuments of China onto the men and women who made them. Taking readers inside the private workshops, crowded marketplaces, and great palaces, temples, and tombs of early China, Barbieri-Low explores the lives and working conditions of artisans, meticulously documenting their role in early Chinese society and the economy. First published in 2007 winner of top prizes from the Association for Asian Studies American Historical Association College Art Association and the International Convention of Asia Scholars and now back in print Artisans in Early Imperial China will appeal to anyone interested in Chinese history as well as to scholars of comparative social history labor history and Asian art history
