Role Of The Nvq Abebor National Vocational Qualifications And The D Unit:

The Role of the NVQ Assessor Malcolm Day, 1996 Based upon a study of NVQ assessors working within the nursing home sector this book meets the requirements of the new Occupational Standards for NVQ assessors and provides practical advice on how to achieve the NVQ Assessors Award It is primarily aimed at individuals working in the health care sector but care workers who are working in social care child care education and the criminal justice field should also find parts of the book relevant Nurse teachers in Schools of Nursing which have implemented competence based approaches towards Project 2000 programmes should also find the book useful NVQs and Learners with Special Needs Great Britain. Further Education Unit, 1990 A project of Great Britain's Further Education Unit explored the role adult education colleges can play in facilitating access to the national vocational qualifications NVQs for learners with special needs and identifying barriers to NVQs for adults with special needs The issues surrounding the current and planned changes to the NVQs are that 1 people with disabilities have the most problems in accessing vocational training in a country where less than half the population obtain a vocational qualification 2 predicted demographic changes will mean that people with special needs will be needed in the work force 3 lecturers and trainers need to shift their thinking about the capacities and futures of people with disabilities and 4 NVQ awards should be free of any barriers that restrict access to them Five colleges were visited and staff from nine colleges attended a seminar to discuss the issues Among the findings reported were that 1 few colleges were providing NVQs for learners with special needs 2 training toward NVQs was not generally seen as a primary method of employment preparation 3 in some colleges special needs staff were ignorant of NVQs and their role in helping learners gain employment 4 most schools put special needs adults into existing slots rather than providing tailored programs and 5 prevocational education and career exploration opportunities were seldom offered Among the project's recommendations were that adults should receive NVQ credits for prior learning and credits for basic skills should count toward NVQs CML

Nvqs And The Emerging Model Of Education And Training Gilbert Jessup, 2003-12-16 Jessup's widely acclaimed book provides explanations of the many facets of National Vocational Qualifications who they are for why they have been developed how they work and the benefits they confer The author explains how NVQs relate to a wide range of issues in education and training NVQ Nigeria. National Board for Technical Education, 2014 Open College Networks and National Vocational Qualifications, 1990-01-01 Both the National Council for Vocational Qualifications NCVQ and Open College Networks or Federations OCNs have the objective of creating nationally coherent frameworks of qualification and training in Britain However they are very different organizations and have distinct though potentially complementary roles Issues where the two organizations share similar aims and practices are clarifying learning outcomes assessment criteria for assessment accreditation of prior learning modularization and credit accumulation and transfer Several important areas of difference remain between them accreditation definitions of outcomes accreditation of prior learning and processes and outcomes Both OCNs and NVQs provide frameworks that facilitate credit accumulation and transfer but there are considerable differences between the two systems The principal differences relate to notions of value measured in credits or units and level Potentially OCNs offer access routes into NVQs for groups of learners for whom traditional programs delivering NVQs may not be appropriate as a first step they offer a mechanism for NVQ units of competence to be combined flexibly with other learning to meet local and individual needs whether of employers or of local groups and communities Learners would be able to obtain NVQs in their local environment with additional skills appropriate to their particular needs

Introducing General National Vocational Qualifications ,1993

Will National Vocational Qualifications Work? Claire Callender,1992-01-01 A study was conducted in Britain between October 1990 and June 1991 to evaluate the implementation and delivery of National Vocational Qualifications NVQs and the implications for the training of trainers NVQs are a device for assessing performance they represent the systemization of the skills and competencies required in a wide variety of occupations and at different levels The study focused on the construction industry but its findings are applicable to many other industries Data were collected through 20 in depth interviews with key organizations concerned with the introduction of NVQs generally and in the construction industry in particular and 7 case studies were made of a cross section of construction companies and their off site training providers The research identified two sets of issues that together are inhibiting and negating the use of NVQs 1 structures that are necessary preconditions for the implementation of NVQs are inadequate particularly in access to information about NVQs and in funding and resources for training providers employers and trainees and 2 industrial organizations are causing NVQs that are not occupationally based to proliferate and inhibit the transfer of skills between and within industries and many NVQs are too limited and narrowly defined The research showed the need for the training of trainers to maintain high training standards and the credibility of NVQs The study concluded that the introduction of NVQs alone is unlikely to change either employers incentive to train or the take up of vocational training Additional policies are required for the NVQs to meet the training needs of the future Contains 33 references KC
