Lost in the Supermarket Georgios Kyroglou,2024-12-17 Political consumerism refers to citizens use of boycotting and buycotting as they seek to influence political outcomes within the marketplace rather than through more traditional routes such as voting It is commonly understood as reflective of the progressively converging roles of the citizens and the consumers in late modernity In the aftermath of the Recession young people in particular are attempting to harness their individual consumer power to collectively express their political ethical and environmental considerations via their consumer choices The expansion of political consumerism among young people across several advanced liberal democracies has been theorised as a result of a wider cultural shift towards cosmopolitanism and postmaterialist value orientations and therefore as an outcome of affluence However the persistence of political consumerism as a preferred form of political participation among young people who were socialised under conditions of neoliberal austerity during and after the 2008 Global Financial Crisis calls for a re evaluation of these assumptions In particular given the susceptibility of political consumerism to a neoliberal modus operandi that attempts to commercialise citizenship itself the lack of literature problematising its emergence within a neoliberal socioeconomic context is indeed surprising This book addresses this gap by offering a detailed re evaluation of the underlying motivations values and identity orientations of young political consumers in a country of the European north United Kingdom as opposed to one of the European south Greece It will be of interest to academic specialists working in the areas of Political Sociology Youth Studies and Consumer Studies and scholars interested in political participation and political engagement

Lund University, language: English. abstract This paper describes how transsexuals in Iran negotiate their everyday life within social and cultural boundaries and how post-operation transsexuals are recognised by others. It gives an overview of the legal situation, the transition process, and describes socio-cultural issues of transsexuals while finding their own identity in Iranian society. Since Ayatollah Khomeini published a fatwa that permitted sex reassignment surgery (SRS) for hermaphrodites, the Iranian government uses methods to enforce adherence of gender roles and defines transsexuals as people with a Gender Identity Disorder (GID) who need to be treated. The aim of the fatwa was to correct the true sex in order to prevent same-sex desire and maintain society's heteronormative morality. The illegality of homosexual acts supported the development of sex change operations in Iran because transsexuality became a more accepted way of being non-heteronormative as they are perceived to be born in the wrong body. However, despite the legalisation of SRS, social oppression towards transsexuals is still prevalent in Iranian society. Prejudices and discrimination create a transphobic discourse within the society. Many transsexuals have to deal with identity issues, social oppression, and often challenge the essential discourse of gender/sex while seeking for recognition within their social environment. Transsexuals do not seek for recognition of identity politics but rather for recognition of status in society in order to become an equal social participant. The legalisation of SRS is not progressive but rather reinforces gender apartheid and homophobia as many homosexuals are forced to change in order to escape punishments of homosexual acts. The Lost Heir George Alfred Henty, 1899 In this tale of intrigue in India and England, a child who is the sole heir to the fortune of a wealthy Indian Army officer disappears.
