Constructing Empire Bill Sewell, 2019-02-15 Civilians play crucial roles in building empires Constructing Empire shows how Japanese urban planners architects and other civilians contributed often enthusiastically to constructing a modern colonial enclave in northeast China their visions shifting over time Japanese imperialism in Manchuria before 1932 developed in a manner similar to that of other imperialists elsewhere in China but the Japanese thereafter sought to surpass their rivals by transforming the city of Changchun into a grand capital for the puppet state of Manchukuo putting it on the cutting edge of Japanese propaganda Providing a thematic assessment of the evolving nature of planning architecture economy and society in Changchun Bill Sewell examines the key organizations involved in developing Japan's empire there as part of larger efforts to assert its place in the world order This engaging book sheds light on evolving attitudes toward empire and perceptions of national identity among Japanese in Manchuria in the first half of the twentieth century

The Constructed Other: Japanese Architecture in the Western Mind Kevin Nute, 2021-09-30 The Constructed Other argues that the assumed otherness of Japanese architecture has made it both a testbed for Western architectural theories and a source of inspiration for Western designers The book traces three recurring themes in Western accounts of Japanese architecture from the reopening of Japan in the mid nineteenth century to the present day a wish to see Western architectural theories reflected in Japanese buildings efforts to integrate elements of Japanese architecture into Western buildings and a desire to connect contemporary Japanese architecture with Japanese tradition It is suggested that together these narratives have had the effect of creating what amounts to a mythical version of Japanese architecture often at odds with historical fact but which has exercised a powerful influence on the development of building design internationally A Global History of Architecture Mark M.

society facing an uncertain future Murphy's buildings were more than vessels for either aesthetic visions or technical expertise inadvertently they became political emblems as Chinese rulers such as Chiang Kai shek and Sun Yat sen's son called on Murphy for city planning advice to complement their hopes for urban reconstruction There are few serious studies of Western architects in the twentieth century who practiced in non Western contexts and those scant studies that have been published concentrate largely on British French or Dutch examples in colonial settings Hence the book makes significant contributions to the fields of both American and Chinese architectural history

Architecture and the Landscape of Modernity in China before 1949 Edward Denison, 2017-02-17 This book explores China's encounter with architecture and modernity in the tumultuous epoch before Communism an encounter that was mediated not by a singular notion of modernism emanating from the west but that was uniquely multifarious deriving from a variety of sources both from the west and importantly from the east The heterogeneous origins of modernity in China are what make its experience distinctive and its architectural encounters exceptional These experiences are investigated through a re evaluation of established knowledge of the subject within the wider landscape of modern art practices in China The study draws on original archival and photographic material from different artistic genres and architecturally concentrates on China's engagement with the west through the treaty ports and leased territories the emergence of architecture as a profession in China and Japan's omnipresence not least in Manchuria which reached its apogee in the puppet state of Manchukuo The study's geographically temporally and architecturally inclusive approach framed by the concept of multiple modernities questions the application of conventional theories of modernity or post colonialism to the Chinese situation By challenging conventional modernist historiography that has marginalised the experiences of the west's other for much of the last century this book proposes different ways of grappling with and comprehending the distinction and complexity of China's experiences and its encounter with architectural modernity
