topographies to express political legitimacy on a global stage Sex Work in Colonial Egypt Francesca Biancani, 2018-07-30 In the early 20th century Cairo was a vibrant and booming global metropolis The integration of Egypt into the global market had led to rapid urban growth and increased migration As occupational prospects for women outside the family were limited sex work became a prominent feature of the new modern city However the economic and social changes in Egypt ignited national anxieties about racial degeneration social disorder and imperial decadence Francesca Biancani argues here that this was a period of national crisis that became inscribed on the bodies of female sex workers Based on a wide range of rare primary sources including documents from court cases reformist papers police minutes and letters Biancani examines the discourses around sex workers and shows how prostitution was understood in colonial Egypt The book argues that from initially regulating and managing prostitution local and colonial elites began to depict sex workers as a threat to the physical and moral welfare of the rising Egyptian nation However far from being a marginal activity prostitution is shown to play a central role in the history of Egyptian nation making By exploring the interdependence of power and marginality respectability and transgression Biancani writes sex work and its practitioners back into the history of modern Egypt The book is an original contribution to the global history of prostitution and a vital resource for scholars of Middle East Studies

The Large Landowning Class and the Peasantry in Egypt, 1837-1952 Raouf Abbas, Assem El-Dessouky, 2022-09-01 In Egypt the landowning class first arose in the early part of the nineteenth century from land grants given to extended family members and friends of the ruler Muhammad Ali The development of capitalism and with it the evolution of law and social practice allowed these land grants gradually to take on the attributes of private property a process that culminated in 1891 in land becoming a form of property like any other From these developments a class of large landowners emerged and began to defend their interests both economic and political In two seminal Arabic works published in the 1970s the authors Abbas and El Dessouky traced the formation of this class exploring the multiple factors that influenced the rise and power of landowners Combined into one volume and translated into English for the first time this book offers a comprehensive analysis of landownership and its effects on Egyptian society The authors draw from extensive archival sources successfully integrating in their work the competing forces of the state the landlords and the peasants By moving beyond much of the familiar

Sounds Ziad Fahmy, 2020-08-25 As the twentieth century roared on transformative technologies from trains trams and automobiles to radios and loudspeakers fundamentally changed the sounds of the Egyptian streets The cacophony of everyday life grew louder and the Egyptian press featured editorials calling for the regulation of not only mechanized and amplified sounds but also the voices of street vendors the music of wedding processions and even the traditional funerary wails Ziad Fahmy offers the first historical examination of the changing soundscapes of urban Egypt highlighting the mundane sounds of street life while listening to the voices of ordinary people as they struggle with state authorities for ownership of the streets Interweaving infrastructural cultural and social history Fahmy analyzes the sounds of modernity using sounded sources as an analytical tool for examining the past Street Sounds also reveals a political dimension of noise by demonstrating how the growing middle classes used sound to distinguish themselves from the Egyptian masses This book contextualizes sound layering historical analysis with a sensory dimension bringing us closer to the Egyptian streets as lived and embodied by everyday people International Third World Studies Journal & Review ,2006 Building Histories

Mrinalini Rajagopalan, 2017-03-01 Building Histories offers innovative accounts of five medieval monuments in Delhi the Red Fort Rasul Numa Dargah Jama Masjid Purana Qila and the Qutb complex tracing their modern lives from the nineteenth century into the twentieth Mrinalini Rajagopalan argues that the modern construction of the history of these monuments entailed the careful selection manipulation and regulation of the past by both the colonial and later postcolonial states

Although framed as objective archival truths these histories were meant to erase or marginalize the powerful and persistent affective appropriations of the monuments by groups who often existed outside the center of power By analyzing these archival and affective histories together Rajagopalan works to redefine the historic monument far from a symbol of a specific past the monument is shown in Building Histories to be a culturally mutable object with multiple stories to tell

Orphans and Destitute Children in the Late Ottoman Empire Nazan Maksudyan, 2014-12-06 History books often weave tales of rising and falling empires royal dynasties and wars among powerful nations Here Maksudyan succeeds in making those who are farthest removed from power the lead actors in this history Focusing on orphans and destitute youth of the late Ottoman Empire the author gives voice to those children who have long been neglected Their experiences and perspectives shed new light on many significant developments of the late Ottoman period providing an alternative narrative that recognizes children as historical agents Maksudyan takes the reader from the intimate world of infant foundlings to the larger international context of missionary orphanages all while focusing on Ottoman modernization urbanization citizenship and the maintenance of order and security Drawing upon archival records she explores the ways in which the treatment of orphans intersected with welfare labor and state building in the Empire Throughout the book Maksudyan does not lose sight of her lead actors and the influence of the children is always present if we simply listen and notice carefully as Maksudyan so convincingly argues
