Making Connections Transparencies Level 1 Trans Making Connections 1996:

Transparency in a New Global Order Christina Garsten, Monica Lindh De Montoya, 2008-01-01 This book argues that transparency is a concept that has gained increasing currency and favour as an organizing principle and administrative goal in recent years. Calls for transparency have been directed towards states, markets, corporations and national political processes as well as towards large institutions such as the European Union. Focusing on empirically rich case studies, the contributors explore the ideas and practices of transparency in different contexts, encouraging a discussion of the many facets of the term and its strengths, ambiguities and limitations. They aim to shed light on the powerful global discourse and practices contained in the concept and to fill a gap in the literature since few attempts have until now been made to examine the actual content and practice of transparency. Also discussed are the complex negotiations through which it is determined what should be displayed and what should remain hidden, the uses of power and control and the processes through which transparency is or is not achieved. This analysis of the concepts, models and metaphors that guide and shape organizational, social and aesthetical practices today will provide a much needed contribution to the literature for academics, researchers and students focusing on these areas.

Media Regulation, Public Interest and the Law Mike Feintuck, 2006-07-10 Regulation of the media has traditionally been premised upon claims of the public interest, yet the term itself remains contested and generally ill defined. In the context of technological development and convergence, as well as corporate conglomeration, traditional public service values in British broadcasting are challenged by market values. With such ongoing trends continuing apace, regulators must increasingly justify their interventions. The communication industries' commercialisation and privatisation pose a fundamental threat to democratic values. Media Regulation, Public Interest and the Law argues that regulators will only successfully protect such values if claims associated with citizenship are recognised as the rationale and objective for the regulatory endeavour While such themes are central to the book this second edition has been substantially revised and updated to take account of matters such as European Directives the UK's Communications Act 2003 the process of reviewing the BBC's Charter and relevant aspects of the reform of general competition law Key Features Identifies and examines the rationales underlying media regulation and the current challenges to them Considers fully the actual and potential utility of legal mechanisms and principles in the design and activities of regulatory institutions Fully updated to take account of the European Union's 2002 New Regulatory Framework and the UK's Communications Act 2003 Accessible to a wide readership in media studies journalism broadcasting and law Praise for the First Edition A detailed and critical assessment of the problems and confusions of recent media regulation in the UK including digital television franchising and the Broadcasting Complaints Commission it is well organised and should be a useful resource for more advanced students and academics for updating the public regulation case with vigour and clarity this book is to be welcomed THES Fair and Equitable

Benefit-sharing in International Law Elisa Morgera, 2024-04-24 Fair and equitable benefit sharing is a diffuse legal phenomenon in international law The continued proliferation of benefit sharing clauses can be explained by their appeal as an optimistic frame in addressing sustainability and equity concerns related to bio based innovation the use of natural resources environmental protection and knowledge creation In principle fair and equitable benefit sharing serves to recognize encourage and incentivise sustainable human relationships with the environment by focusing on equity issues arising from the most intractable challenges of our time such as loss of biodiversity climate change poverty and global epidemics Empirical evidence however indicates that in practice benefit sharing rarely achieves its fairness and equity objectives and ends up entrenching or worsening inequitable relationships with little to no benefit for the environment Instead of focusing on fair and equitable benefit sharing in sub specialist areas of international law in isolation Elisa Morgera assesses the phenomenon from a general international law perspective and through comparison across international environmental law international human rights law international health law and the law of the sea Strengthened by insights from local level case studies in different regions and sectors this book looks toward overcoming the limitations inherent in individual international regimes and addressing the shortcomings in benefit sharing implementation Morgera's topical and comprehensive analysis reveals opportunities to advance fairness and equity in benefit sharing through a mutually supportive interpretation of international biodiversity law and international human rights law as well as opportunities to contribute to future research in areas such as international health law international law on outer space and international economic law This is an open access title It is made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 International licence It is available to read and download as a PDF version on the Oxford Academic platform
