Born Translated Rebecca L. Walkowitz, 2015-08-04 As a growing number of contemporary novelists write for publication in multiple languages the genre's form and aims are shifting Born translated novels include passages that appear to be written in different tongues narrators who speak to foreign audiences and other visual and formal techniques that treat translation as a medium rather than as an afterthought These strategies challenge the global dominance of English complicate native readership and protect creative works against misinterpretation as they circulate They have also given rise to a new form of writing that confounds traditional models of literary history and political community Born Translated builds a much needed framework for understanding translation's effect on fictional works as well as digital art avant garde magazines literary anthologies and visual media Artists and novelists discussed include J M Coetzee Junot Diaz Jonathan Safran Foer Mohsin Hamid Kazuo Ishiguro Jamaica Kincaid Ben Lerner China Miéville David Mitchell Walter Mosley Caryl Phillips Adam Thirlwell Amy Waldman and Young-hae Chang Heavy Industries The book understands that contemporary literature begins at once in many places engaging in a new type of social embeddedness and political solidarity It recasts literary history as a series of convergences and departures and by elevating the status of born translated works redefines common conceptions of author reader and nation

The Sum of No Equation Sabine Freyling, 2008 Starting with the social and psychological side of the person Naipaul one can summarise some reasonably simple discoveries that can be extracted from both his autobiographical pieces and his seemingly fictional books published within a period of more than fifty years Naipaul suggested that the way to approach the author is not through finding out as much as possible about the man and one could easily argue that the idea shall simply be used in conversion One can learn more about the person when taking into account all that has been produced by the author who is part of the person By this means one can extract valuable information about both person and author and thus can easily uncover some mysteries that have been established by the author person to conceal the reality behind a fixed idea that has always played a significant role in Naipaul's life Having studied English Naipaul was aware of all the tools available and of the aims of literary critics and seems to have challenged these established routes for his own sake and to serve his purpose

Beginning Postmodernism Tim Woods, 1999-08-20 Postmodernism has become the buzzword of contemporary society Yet it remains baffling in its variety of definitions contexts and associations Beginning Postmodernism aims to offer clear accessible and step by step introductions to postmodernism across a wide range of subjects It encourages readers to explore how the debates about postmodernism have emerged from basic philosophical and cultural ideas With its emphasis firmly on postmodernism in practice the book contains exercises and questions designed to help readers understand and reflect upon a variety of positions in the following areas of contemporary culture philosophy and cultural theory architecture and concepts of space visual art sculpture and the design arts popular culture and music film video and television culture and the social sciences End of empire and the English novel since 1945 Rachael Gilmour, Bill Schwarz, 2015-07-01 Available in paperback for the first time this first book length study explores the history of postwar England during the end of empire through a reading of novels which appeared at the time moving from George Orwell and William Golding to Penelope Lively Alan Hollinghurst and Ian McEwan Particular genres are also discussed including the family saga travel writing detective fiction and popular romances All included reflect on the predicament of an England which no longer lies at the centre of imperial power arriving at a fascinating diversity of conclusions about the meaning and consequences of the end of empire and the privileged location of the novel for discussing what decolonization meant for the domestic English population of the metropole The book is written in an easy style unburdened by large sections of abstract reflection It endeavours to bring alive in a new way the traditions of the English novel The Literary Supplement, 1992 The Vertical Imagination and the Crisis of Transatlantic Modernism Paul Haacke, 2021-03-11 From the invention of skyscrapers and airplanes to the development of the nuclear bomb ideas about the modern increasingly revolved around vertiginous images of elevation and decline and new technologies of mobility and terror from above In The Vertical Imagination and the Crisis of Transatlantic Modernism Paul Haacke examines this turn by focusing on discourses of aspiration catastrophe and power in major works of European and American literature as well as film architecture and intellectual and cultural history This wide ranging and pointed study begins with canonical fiction by Franz Kafka Virginia Woolf James Joyce and John Dos Passos as well as poetry by Guillaume Apollinaire Hart Crane and Aim C saire before moving to critical reflections on the rise of New York City by architects and writers from Le Corbusier to Simone de Beauvoir the films of Alfred Hitchcock and theories of cinematic space and time and postwar novels by Kurt Vonnegut Thomas Pynchon and Leslie Marmon Silko among many other examples In tracing the rise and fall of modernist discourse over the course of the long twentieth century this book shows how visions of vertical ascension turned from established ideas about nature the body and religion to growing anxieties about aesthetic distinction technological advancement and American capitalism and empire It argues that spectacles of height and flight became symbols and icons of ambition as well as direct indexes of power and thus that the vertical transformation of modernity was both material and imagined taking place at the same time through the rapidly expanding built environment and shifting ideological constructions of high and low Unfolding the City Anne Lambright, Elisabeth Guerrero, 2007 The city is not only built of towers of steel and glass it is a product of culture It plays an especially important role in Latin America where urban areas hold a near monopoly on resources and are home to an expanding population The essays in this collection assert that women's views of the city are unique and revealing For the first time Unfolding the City addresses issues of gender and the urban in literature particularly lesser known works of literature written by Latin American women from Mexico City Santiago and Buenos Aires The contributors propose new mappings of urban space interpret race and class dynamics and describe Latin
