† David Banisar, Esq. is an attorney and writer in the Washington, DC area. He is Deputy Director of Privacy International (PI) and a Senior Fellow at the Electronic Privacy Information Center (EPIC). Simon Davies is Director General of Privacy International and a Visiting Fellow at the London School of Economics. Mr. Davies serves on the Professional Advisory Board of this publication. This article is based on Privacy and Human Rights 1999: An International Survey of Privacy Laws and Developments, which was written with support from the Open Society Institute and the EPIC Trust. Knowledgeable individuals from academia, government, human rights groups and other fields were asked to submit reports and information. Their reports were supplemented with information gathered from Constitutions, laws, international and national government documents, news reports, human rights reports and other sources. An electronic version of the full report and updates are available at the Privacy International web page at <<http://www.privacyinternational.org/survey/>>. Privacy International is a human rights group formed in 1990 as a watchdog on surveillance by governments and corporations. PI is based in London, UK and has an office in Washington, D.C. EPIC is a public interest group in Washington, D.C. that promotes privacy, free speech and freedom of information. More information on EPIC is available at <<http://www.epic.org/>>.
