Moving Beyond The Gap Between Research And Practice In Higher Education:

Moving Beyond the Gap Between Research and Practice in Higher Education ,1990 The Gap Between Research and Practice Joseph Brian Shultz,2007 Understanding and Facilitating Organizational Change in the 21st Century: Recent Research and Conceptualizations Adrianna Kezar,2011-10-06 There is a widespread discontent with the quality of education and levels of college student achievement particularly for undergraduates preparing for the professions This report examines the educational challenges in preparing professionals reviews the specific types of curriculum innovations that faculty and administrators have created or significantly revised to strengthen college graduates abilities and focuses on the societal changes and expectations produced by the acceleration in technology Connecting Learning Across the Institution Pamela L. Eddy,2014-03-25 Most research on learning tends to occur in silos based on stakeholder perspective This volume seeks to break down these silos and draw together scholars who research learning from different perspectives to highlight commonalities in learning for students faculty and institutions When we understand how learning is experienced across the institution we can develop strategies that help support enhance and reinforce learning for all Exploring what it means to bridge learning across the institution this volume provides a roadmap to improve learning for all Both scholarly and practical it advances the knowledge about the ways we investigate and study learning across and for various groups of learners It also Collects thinking about learning in its various formats in one location Provides a platform for synthesis Outlines key questions for thinking more deeply about learning on campus Instead of thinking of learning as discrete depending on the stakeholder group this volume highlights the commonalities across all types of learners Following the Path from Teaching to Research University Gustavo Gregorutti,2011-01-18 The 21st century has started out with universities adhering to a school of thought that has evolved to the point of believing in the metamorphosis of people and society through the creation of powerful inventions And society seems to expect that too Universities around the world are experiencing an increasing pressure to produce revolutionary ideas that can be translated into publications patents business and the like As a way of welcoming the third mission for universities elite winners of this tough game are gathering prestige visibility and all kind of human and financial assets Training and research the first and second missions are no longer enough universities are in a race for resources expressed in rankings that tend to model the whole higher education system But what about the small and middle size universities They are watching the game and want to be part of it This book is concerned with that group especially private higher education that is looking for ways to become visible and attract more resources Leadership at these institutions is becoming more entrepreneurial every day and following in the steps of highly research productive schools Changes like these do not come without resistance from among others faculty members who see these shifts as a threat to their traditional teaching mission In short this wave of producing inventions has put an incredible amount of stress on human resources and funding at smaller institutions The book illustrates the perceptions that professors have about the production of knowledge and their organizational environment This study seeks through a mixed method to unveil organizational and personal characteristics of faculty members most related to research productivity at 12 small to medium sized not for profit private doctorate granting universities in the United States of America As an additional contribution the author taps into alternative models of higher education the implications for which should be considered in broader society This is a scholarly work that is oriented to both policy makers and scholars of private universities that are evolving from a teaching oriented culture to a more research intense one

Moving Beyond the Gap Between Research and Practice in Higher Education Kezar, Peter Eckel, 2000-07-14 The culture of the academy the reward system of tenure the socialization of faculty the disciplinary orientations and the unclear designation of higher education as a professional field or a discipline are all encompassed within a larger paradigm that discounts practice or for practitioners discounts research and separates research from practice This volume of New Directions for Higher Education provides a forum for the chapter authors both researchers and practitioners to explore the dichotomy and to offer solutions including examples of current efforts that have already begun to bridge the gap from cover
