Digital Media Use in Early Childhood - Contextual Factors, Developmental Outcomes and Pathways Margarete Ingrid Bolten ,Eva Unternaehrer,2025-08-19 Families daily lives are heavily influenced by digital media Especially during the COVID 19 pandemic the daily screen time of parents and children increased extraordinary At the same time concerns are growing about the effects on the physical socio emotional and cognitive development of children in early childhood Although the research on the effect of digital media use on preschool children is still patchy and sometimes inconsistent It is by no means clear if and how the development of children is impacted by digital media use of parents or the children themselves However the healthy development in early childhood is crucially dependent on direct contact with sensitive physically present care takers and the real world with all senses There are however two areas of risk in this context a the so called technoferece or parental distraction caused by digital media use which can have a negative effect on the parent child interactions and relations and b the use of digital media by the infant toddler or preschooler itself

Fundamentals of Developmental Cognitive Neuroscience Heather Bortfeld,Silvia A. Bunge,2024-02-01 An exciting introduction to the scientific interface between biological studies of the brain and behavioural studies of human development

The authors trace the field from its roots in developmental psychology and neuroscience and highlight some of the most persuasive research findings before anticipating future directions the field may take. They begin with a brief orientation of the brain along with genetics and epigenetics and then summarise brain development and plasticity. Later chapters detail the neurodevelopmental basis of a wide variety of human competencies including perception, language comprehension, socioemotional development, memory systems, literacy and numeracy, and self-regulation. Suitable for advanced undergraduate and graduate courses in developmental cognition or neuroscience, this textbook covers the prenatal period through to infancy, childhood, and adolescence. It is pedagogically rich, featuring interviews with leading researchers, learning objectives, review questions, further reading recommendations, and numerous colour figures. Instructor teaching is supported by lecture slides and a test bank.

Homeless Narratives & Pretreatment Pathways Jay S. Levy, 2010-01-01

On any given night there are over 643,000 homeless people residing in shelters and on the streets across America. What can we do to help? Levy crafts stories of characters who sear the memory: Old Man Ray, the World War II veteran who resents the VA system and regards himself as the de facto night watchman at Port Authority; Ben, who claims to be a prophet disowned in his own country, crucified by the government and enslaved by poverty; finds a bridge to the mainstream services and a path to housing through the common language of religious metaphors including redemption and forgiveness; and Andrew, who has been mentally murdered, is helped to understand his own situation and gain disability benefits through the language of trauma among others. These stories are deftly interwoven with theory and practice as Levy constructs his developmental model of the engagement and pretreatment process. The outreach worker strives to understand the language and the culture of each homeless individual, builds a bridge to the mainstream services, and helps those providers to understand the special circumstances of these vulnerable people. Levy bears witness to the courage of these pilgrims who wander the streets of our cities, and his poignant book is a testament to the healing power of trusting and enduring relationships.

Jim O'Connell MD, President and Street Physician for Boston Health Care for the Homeless Program

The reader will experience moving real life stories that demystify homeless outreach and its central objectives and challenges. Handbook of Life Course Health Development Neal Halfon, Christopher B. Forrest, Richard M. Lerner, Elaine M. Faustman, 2017-11-20. This book is open access under a CC BY 4.0 license. This handbook synthesizes and analyzes the growing knowledge base on life course health development (LCHD) from the prenatal period through emerging adulthood with implications for clinical practice and public health. It presents LCHD as an innovative field with a sound theoretical framework for understanding wellness and disease from a lifespan perspective, replacing previous medical, biopsychosocial, and early genomic models of health. Interdisciplinary chapters discuss major health concerns: diabetes, obesity, important less-studied conditions, hearing, kidney health, and large-scale issues: nutrition, adversity from a lifespan viewpoint. In addition, chapters address methodological approaches and challenges by analyzing existing measures, studies, and surveys. The book concludes with the editors' research agenda that proposes priorities for future LCHD research and its application to health care practice and health policy. Topics featured in the Handbook include: The prenatal period and its effect on child obesity and metabolic outcomes; Pregnancy complications and their effect on women's cardiovascular health; A multi-level approach for obesity prevention in children; Application of the LCHD framework to autism spectrum disorder; Socioeconomic disadvantage and its influence on health development across the lifespan; The importance of nutrition to optimal health development across the lifespan. The Handbook of Life Course Health Development is a must-have resource for researchers, clinicians, professionals, and graduate students in developmental psychology, science, maternal and child health.
