Pathways Of The Heart:

Signaling in the Heart José Marín-García, 2011-06-21 Signal transduction pathways are at the core of most biological processes and are critical regulators of heart physiology and pathophysiology The heart is both a transmitter and dynamic receptor of a variety of intracellular and extracellular stimuli playing a critical role of an integrator of diverse signaling mechanisms Alterations in signaling pathways are contributing factors in the development and progression of a broad spectrum of diseases ranging from dysrhythmias and atherosclerosis to hypertension and the metabolic syndrome Targeting specific components of these signaling pathways has been shown to be effective in preclinical studies with significant therapeutic impact This book brings together current knowledge in cardiovascular cell signal transduction mechanisms advances in novel therapeutic approaches to improve cardiac function and discussion of future directions Presented from a post genomic perspective this exciting book introduces important new ideas in cardiovascular systems biology It is an invaluable reference for cardiology researchers and practitioners Jefferson Heart Institute Handbook of Cardiology Paul J. Kirshenbaum, 2021-11-29 One of the most intriguing and compelling issues to impact contemporary biology to date is the concept that cell death is genetically regulated Observations by Kerr and Wyllie made more than 30 years ago on the basis of distinct morphological criteria markedly distinguished apoptosis from classical cell death by necrosis Apoptosis is a highly regulated evolutionary conserved genetic program of cell death essential for normal development and tissue homeostasis The discovery of apoptosis as a regulated event and potentially amenable to therapeutic interventions has generated considerable excitement because it meant that disease entities resulting from either too much or too little apoptosis could be potentially cured with new therapies that target apoptosis While there is little doubt that necrosis induced by massive cellular trauma is likely an unregulated event several lines of investigation have challenged the dogma that necrotic cell death is merely unregulated Emerging data has shifted the paradigm in our thinking about necrosis as a regulated event Autophagy is another cellular process that has received considerable attention over the past two decades and its remarkable involvement in the processes of cell survival death and tumorigenesis Macro autophagy is a catabolic process that involves the selective and targeted removal of oxidized proteins macromolecular structures and organelles through an elaborate cellular process involving a lysosome mediated pathway Other forms of autophagy involving adapter proteins commonly referred to as chaperone mediated autophagy involves the selective removal of cellular cargo by the ubiquitin proteasome pathway The book will serve as a reference guide for basic and clinical scientists who are interested in understanding how these critical cellular processes impact the pathogenesis of human disease The Neuroscience of Feelings: Brain-Heart Connectivity in Neurodegenerative Diseases ,2025-07-01 The Neuroscience of Feelings Brain Heart Connectivity in Neurodegenerative Diseases Volume 294 explores the complex interplay between emotions and brain function G147 covering topics such as The role of heart brain connectivity in neurodegeneration mechanisms and impacts Cardiovascular influence on cognitive decline the heart s role in neurodegenerative disorders Autonomic nervous system dysregulation in neurodegenerative diseases bridging brain and heart Heart rate variability as an indicator of brain health in neurodegeneration and much more Other sections cover Emotional stress and cardiovascular health impacts on neurodegenerative disease progression Exploring heart brain axis alterations in Parkinson s disease Cardiac biomarkers as predictors of cognitive decline in neurodegenerative conditions Heart brain synchrony therapeutic implications for neurodegenerative disease and Neurocardiology and neurodegenerative diseases emerging research on emotional regulation and brain heart connectivity Bridges neuroscience and cardiology providing a holistic view of how heart brain interactions influence neurodegenerative diseases Features the latest studies on autonomic nervous system dysregulation cardiac biomarkers and emotional stress Explores novel diagnostic tools and interventions for cognitive decline and neurodegenerative disorders Heart Block: Advances in Understanding, Management, and Lifestyle Interventions Dr. Spineanu Eugenia,2025-03-12 Heart Block Advances in Understanding Management and Lifestyle Interventions comprehensively explores the intricacies of heart block from its physiological underpinnings to cutting edge treatments and lifestyle recommendations This treatise delves into the classification etiology and mechanisms of heart block offering detailed insights into symptoms diagnostic approaches like ECG and Holter monitoring and advanced therapeutic strategies including pharmacological interventions and surgical procedures It emphasizes the pivotal role of lifestyle modifications such as exercise recommendations and dietary considerations in optimizing cardiovascular health and mitigating complications With a focus on emerging therapies genetics and long term outcomes this authoritative guide serves as an invaluable resource for healthcare professionals researchers and patients seeking to understand manage and effectively navigate the complexities of heart block The Hahnemannian Monthly ,1920 Physiology of the Heart Arnold M.
