This book charts important changes brought about by teachers in the way literature is read and written about in schools. Rooted in experiences of inner city schools, it is extremely practical and especially valuable for the multi-ethnic classroom. The writers, all of whom are experienced teachers of English, believe however that all schools need to respond to the cultural, racial, and linguistic diversity of British society, whether their own populations are homogeneous or mixed. By concentrating on real classrooms, real lessons, and real children, the book shows how particular ideas can be put into practice. It approaches theories of reading and of literature through specific examples of lively and successful practice and argues the case for the centrality of literature and literacy to the curriculum. The book includes lists of resources, books to read with children, and books for teachers to read for themselves to deepen their understanding of the ideas and their confidence in adapting them for their own classrooms. Throughout the book, continuities are emphasized between life and literature, between reading and writing, and between learning to read, becoming better at it, and studying literature. The Death of Luigi Trastulli and Other Stories Alessandro Portelli, 1991-01-01. Insightful, elegantly written analyses of oral narratives by a literary scholar with a deep understanding of the politics of history and historical practice. The Death of Luigi Trastulli is arguably the most cited essay about oral history narratives. Waramingo's Boys and Other Stories Judith A. Lewis, 2007-08-17. A BOLD WALKABOUT ACROSS THE LAND OF VISION, IMAGINATION, AND REALITY. The stories in this book are a combination of my imagination, vision, and experiences, and contacts writes storyteller Judith A. Lewis about this compelling collection of 65 stories about the Australian Outback, the Pacific, India, and traveling. They came to me in vivid detail, and I felt compelled to share these insights into a richer way of looking at our relationship to the Earth. Her theme is the journey across landscapes through cultures, or into the vivid realms of visionary experience. Lewis writes evocatively about traveling in spirit and body across Aboriginal and cultural terrains, from meeting kangaroo spirits to long lost fathers. But she writes with equal insight and warmth about the enigmas of the heart, its secrets, joys, aspirations, and epiphanies. A twelve-year-old girl survives an illness by communing with the waratah in bloom. A traveler in Bombay is arrested by beauty amidst the frenetic urban haze. Two twins separated in early childhood journey towards each other. A homeless man constantly walks the highways to bury his past. An Aboriginal medicine man named Waramingo meets the Dreamtime ancestors. A lot of the visionary stories pertain to the land and its secrets, and those who visit it from afar. Lewis says, "I believe that the Earth is alive and awaiting our recognition, as are the other dimensions that we all could inhabit. I hope my stories help you remember what you already know: that there is no separation; that everything, from stones to stars, is part of us on this lovely planet." The Shunned House And Other Stories (Annotated) H.
