Introduction

Communication is a process of exchange, i.e give and take of information by message or otherwise. It is nothing, but the process of transferring information from one person to another.

The word Communication begin from Latin word "communicare," meaning "to share" impart, participate etc. Communication could be a concept, fact, idea, principle or theory. It's a purposeful activity of exchanging information and meaning across space and time using various technical or natural means, whichever is available or preferred.

Definition of communication:

Leland Brown states that communication is the transmission and interchange of facts, ideas, feelings, or course of action.

Theo Haieemann states that communication is the process of passing information and understanding from one person to another. It is the process of imparting ideas and making oneself understood by others.

Websters dictionary defines communication as sending, giving, or exchanging information and ideas. Communication is a means of persuasion to influence the other so that the desired effect is consciously or unconsciously achieved.

Allen Louis states that communication is the sum of all the things one person does when he wants to create understanding in mind of another. it involves a systematic and continuous process of telling, listening and understanding.

The process of communication.

- ⑤ Sender or the Encoder
- ⑤ Message itself
- ⑤ Receiver or the Decoder
- ⑤ feedback

(1)The sender can encodes the message in different way like by words, spoken or written, or behaviour or body language etc. Which he or she feels best.

(2)The message is sent via a channel so as to reach the receiver. It could be through mass-media, print, or face to face interaction.

(3)The receiver decodes the message by interpreting the message through contextual and language skills. He also sends a feedback.

(4)what are the after effects of your message.

Communication skills : Communication is one of the most important life skills we can learn—yet one we don't usually put a lot of effort into. Whether you want to have better conversations in your social life or get your ideas across better at work.

- ⑤ Communication skill is the ability an individual displays in effectively communicating with clients, colleagues, subordinates, supervisors in a professional manner.
- ⑤ Communication skills are generally understood to be the art or technique of using oral or written language.
- ⑤ Communication skills are also influenced by culture, experiences, events, actions, variety of technology etc.
- ⑤ There are different communication skills for different events, for e.g-formal meetings, seminars, workshops, conferences, gatherings, classrooms, presentations, etc.
- ⑤ Communication skill is effected by radio, T.V, newspapers etc. To support this various technologies have emerged like mobile phones, ipods, pagers, cameras, multi medias, etc.

Continuing Education of Reference Librarians William A. Katz,1990 Here is a crucial book on the neglected issue of continuing education of reference librarians For librarians seeking to enhance and maintain a high level of quality reference work and for managers who must assure that their staffs receive the basics in continuing education this is essential reading Continuing Education of Reference Librarians addresses the concerns of all librarians that they must be informed and educated in order to excel in their work In the first several chapters of this comprehensive volume on the job librarians focus on the increased need for nontraditional approaches to continuing education and training of reference staff They offer practical ways of making additional training both useful and relatively easy to carry out within the library setting Teachers of reference offer suggestions for contending with current formal courses and they also examine the responsibilities of not only the reference librarian but also the bibliographer and faculty member in staying abreast of current trends Also in this broad based look at continuing education is a list of critical skills most librarians expect of their reference people including reference interview techniques mastery of basic reference sources and an understanding of new technologies a review of the most revolutionary change in teaching reference librarianship in the last 100 years the online search and a discussion on ethics including the need for librarians to be aware of the basic documents of the American Library Association and more importantly the need to treat all library users equally in terms of access and service regardless of status and personal prejudice Continuing Education of Reference Librarians focuses on specific types of training for librarians Authorities explain pioneering programs in California and Maryland which deal with teaching basic reference tools to beginning librarians and paraprofessionals They also discuss the role of multitype networks in continuing education as the most cost and time efficient means available today and the use of self directed contract learning as a method that requires long term planning and rewards in contrast to the immediate results of a short term plan of education The management perspective of continuing education is also included Working library directors offer their observations on sound inspirational approaches to continuing education They also examine the critical role department heads play as mentor to beginning reference librarians
