analysis of archives and high level interviews this book looks at the role of beliefs culture and identity in the making of British nuclear policy from 1945 through to the present day This book also examines Britain s nuclear experience by moving away from traditional interpretations of why states develop and maintain nuclear weapons by adopting a more contemporary approach to political theory Traditional mainstream explanations tend to stress the importance of factors such as the maximization of power the pursuit of national security interests and the role of structure in a largely anarchic international system This book does not dismiss these approaches but argues that British experience suggests that focusing on beliefs culture and identity provides a more useful insight and distinctive interpretation into the process of British nuclear decision making than the more traditional approaches The Oxford Handbook of Names and Naming Carole Hough,2016-04-28

James, 2001-11-28 During the Cold War the small state of Cyprus was of great strategic importance to the West Britain the United States and Nato all had valuable installations there and any armed conflict between Greek and Turkish Cypriots could easily suck two nearby Nato members Greece and Turkey into war When therefore intercommunal fighting broke out in Cyprus in December 1963 the West was deeply embarrassed This book examines the consequential efforts of first Britain and then the UN to keep the peace

Dangerous Energy Wayne D. Cocroft, 2014-06-15 This book comprises a national study of the explosives industry and provides a framework for identification of its industrial archaeology and social history Few monuments of gunpowder manufacture survive in Britain from the Middle Ages although its existence is documented Late 17th century water powered works are identifiable but sparse In the later 18th century however the industry was transformed by state acquisition of key factories notably at Faversham and at Waltham Abbey In the mid 19th century developments in Britain paralleled those in continental Europe and in America namely a shift to production on an industrial scale related to advances in armaments technology The urgency and large scale demands of the two world wars brought state directed or state led solutions to explosives production in the 20th century The book's concluding section looks at planning preservation conservation and presentation in relation to prospective future uses of these sites
