Learning From Text Across Conceptual Domains

Cynthia R. Hynd, 2013-12-16 This volume is an attempt to synthesize the understandings we have about reading to learn Although learning at all ages is discussed in this volume the main focus is on middle and high school classrooms critical spaces of learning and thinking The amount of knowledge presented in written form is increasing and the information we get from texts is often conflicting We are in a knowledge explosion that leaves us reeling and may effectively disenfranchise those who are not keeping up There has never been a more crucial time for students to understand learn from and think critically about the information in various forms of text Thus understanding what it means to learn is vital for all educators Learning from text is a complex matter that includes student factors social ethnic and cultural differences as well as varying motivations self perceptions goals and needs instructional and teacher factors and disciplinary and social factors One important goal of the book is to encourage practicing teachers to learn to consider their students in new ways to see them as being influenced by and as influencing not just the classroom but the total fabric of the disciplines they are learning. Equally important, it is intended to foster further research efforts from local studies of classrooms by teachers to large scale studies that produce generalizable understandings about learning from text. This volume, a result of the editor's and contributors' work with the National Reading Research Center, will be of interest to all researchers, graduate students, practicing teachers, and teachers in training who are interested in understanding the issues that are central to improving students' learning from text.

Literacy Beyond Text Comprehension M. Anne Britt, Jean-François Rouet, Amanda Durik, 2017-07-06. Literacy Beyond Text Comprehension aims to systematically investigate how readers interpret reading tasks within a situation and how that interpretation influences reading behavior and comprehension. Presenting a new model of REading as problem SOLVing RESOLV, the authors describe reading comprehension in terms of how a reader adopts goals within a particular situation that then guide what is read, when and how. By applying the RESOLV model to a range of reading situations, this book provides evidence to suggest that there is no unitary understanding of a task because individuals bring their own goals and characteristics to the situation; as such, it demonstrates the importance of understanding how a reader, e.g., student, test taker, employee completing a work task, represents the context and the specific assignment. Written by internationally recognized learning sciences scholars, Literacy Beyond Text Comprehension advances the state of the art in reading research but also seeks to inform a broader range of audiences, including those interested in the teaching and the assessment of reading.

Verbal Protocols of Reading Michael Pressley, Peter Afflerbach, 2012-12-06 Researchers from a variety of disciplines have collected verbal protocols of reading as a window on conscious reading processes Because such work has occurred in different disciplines many who have conducted verbal protocol analyses have been unaware of the research of others This volume brings together the existing literature from the various fields in which verbal protocols of reading have been generated In so doing the authors provide an organized catalog of all conscious verbal processes reported in studies to date the most complete analysis of conscious reading now available in the literature When the results of all of the studies are considered there is clear support for a number of models of reading comprehension including reader response theories schema perspectives executive processing models and bottom up approaches such as the one proposed by van Dijk and Kintsch The summary of results also demonstrates that none of the existing models goes far enough Thus a new framework constructively responsive reading is described This new model encompasses reader response schematic and executive processing and induction from word and phrase level comprehension to higher order meaning The important concept in this new model is that readers respond to bits and pieces of text as they are encountered all as part of the overarching goal of constructing meaning from text This volume also includes a critical review of the thinking aloud methodology as it has been used thus far This examination suggests that it continues to be an immature methodology and that much work is needed if a complete theory of conscious processing during reading is to be developed via verbal protocol analysis Finally after reviewing what has been accomplished to date the authors provide extensive discussion of the work that remains to be done and the adequacy of the verbal protocol methodology for permitting telling conclusions about text processing
