Lost Sounds Alan Renton,2001-04 Lost Sounds visits a number of lighthouses at different times over the last 130 years to reveal the philanthropic scientific and romantic story of the fog signal how it came about how the machinery worked and for the mariner and the keeper what it sounded like The development of fog signals complemented the expansion of lighthouse construction worldwide from the last quarter of the 19th century and represented the attempt to provide a vital navigation aid to mariners when the beam of light from the lighthouse lens was obscured by fog Lost Sounds reveals the practical development of sound signals from the early percussion instruments to the later succession of compressed air sirens and diaphones through to the last remaining electric emitters But it is much more than that it is a record of another part of maritime history

Coade Stone Howell G. M. Edwards,Christopher J. Brooke,2024-10-25 The history and nature of artificial stone for use in architecture is a subject still shrouded in myth and misconception This book aims to lay bare those misconceptions and present a scientific and architectural account of these materials and especially Coade Stone the most successful of all which found great favour during the Georgian period Many examples of Coade Stone cast sculpture still exist and several key examples are presented in context and as case studies Eleanor Coade s artificial stone was so good that many observers could not distinguish it from the natural stone it replaced the growth in replication of the neo classical statuary and building adornment required in the late Georgian and Regency period was well satisfied by the use of Coade stone A holistic evaluation of Coade stone artefacts is undertaken whereby the use of analytical data historical documentation invoices company records impressed marks and expert connoisseurship will establish the attribution of Coade stone artefacts some of which are currently in the unknown category Several new scientific analyses are presented that demonstrate the true nature of high temperature fired ceramic Coade Stone and allow comparison with other forms of artificial stone such as the cold cured cementitious variations which eventually replaced it in the Victorian period
