Handbook of the Neuroscience of Language Brigitte Stemmer, Harry A. Whitaker, 2008-04-29 In the last ten years the neuroscience of language has matured as a field Ten years ago neuroimaging was just being explored for neurolinguistic questions whereas today it constitutes a routine component At the same time there have been significant developments in linguistic and psychological theory that speak to the neuroscience of language This book consolidates those advances into a single reference The Handbook of the Neuroscience of Language provides a comprehensive overview of this field Divided into five sections section one discusses methods and techniques including clinical assessment approaches methods of mapping the human brain and a theoretical framework for interpreting the multiple levels of neural organization that contribute to language comprehension Section two discusses the impact imaging techniques PET fMRI ERPs electrical stimulation of language cortex TMS have made to language research Section three discusses experimental approaches to the field including disorders at different language levels in reading as well as writing and number processing Additionally chapters here present computational models discuss the role of mirror systems for language and cover brain lateralization with respect to language Part four focuses on language in special populations in various disease processes and in developmental disorders The book ends with a listing of resources in the neuroscience of language and a glossary of items and concepts to help the novice become acquainted with the field Editors Stemmer Whitaker prepared this book to reflect recent developments in neurolinguistics moving the book squarely into the cognitive neuroscience of language and capturing the developments in the field over the past 7 years History section focuses on topics that play a current role in neurolinguistics research aphasia syndromes and lesion analysis Includes section on neuroimaging to reflect the dramatic changes in methodology over the past decade Experimental and clinical section reflects recent developments in the field

Gesture and the Dynamic Dimension of Language Susan D. Duncan, Justine Cassell, Elena T. Levy, 2007-06-06 Each of the 21 chapters in this volume reflects a view of language as a dynamic phenomenon with emergent structure and in each gesture is approached as part of language not an adjunct to it In this all of the authors have been influenced by David McNeill s methods for studying natural discourse and by his theory of the human capacity for language The introductory chapter by Adam Kendon contextualizes McNeill s research paradigm within a history of earlier gesture studies Chapters in the first section Language and Cognition emphasize what McNeill refers to as the intrapersonal plane Many of the chapters adduce evidence for McNeill s claim that gestures can serve as a window onto the speaker s mind Chapters in the second section Environmental Context and Sociality emphasize the interpersonal plane and exemplify McNeill s focus on how moment to moment language use is determined by contextual factors The final section of the volume Atypical Minds and Bodies concerns lessons to be learned from studies of aphasic patients autistic children and artificial humans

A Linguistic Investigation of Aphasic Chinese Speech J. Packard, 2012-12-06 A Linguistic Investigation of Aphasic Chinese Speech is the first detailed linguistic analysis of a large body of aphasic Chinese natural speech data This work describes how the major aphasia syndromes are manifest in Chinese a language which differs significantly from languages upon which traditional aphasia theory is based Following the Chinese data a new explanation for the major aphasia syndromes is offered based on the cognitive science modularity hypothesis The theory posits that Broca s aphasia is the result of computational deficits that occur within linguistic components while Wernicke s aphasia is the result of deficits that occur in the transfer of information between components It is demonstrated how the fluent and non fluent characteristics of the major aphasia syndromes follow directly from the properties of cognitive modules Detailed linguistic descriptions of Broca s and Wernicke s aphasia in Chinese are provided including a summary of diagnostics of aphasia type The complete corpora of four aphasic Chinese speakers including interlinear and free translations are presented in an Appendix

New advances in Rehabilitation of Stroke Xiao Lu, Sheng Li, Xiquan Hu, Hua Yuan, Yue Lan, 2024-01-22 Worldwide stroke remains one of the leading causes of death and long term disability with an estimated prevalence of 2.5%. The prevalence of people living with the effects of stroke has increased because of the growing aging population. As the number of stroke survivors increases so does the demand for function rehabilitation of stroke. The goal of conventional rehabilitation is to improve residual function and restore independence but its impact is still limited. Novel therapeutic approaches remain urgent and the potential mechanisms underlying these approaches require further exploration. Therefore in this Research Topic our goals include 1 to explore novel rehabilitation approaches of stroke in both acute and chronic stages 2 to explore the potential mechanisms underlying novel rehabilitation approaches of stroke 3 to explore different situations and challenges across different countries regarding rehabilitation of stroke 4 to identify ways to further improve the quality of rehabilitation for stroke 5 to identify and remove barriers that limit patients access to appropriate rehabilitation services

Simplified Signs: A Manual Sign-Communication System for Special Populations, Volume 1. John D. Bonvillian, Nicole Kissane Lee, Tracy T. Dooley, Filip T. Loncke, 2020-07-30 Simplified Signs presents a system of manual sign communication intended for special populations who have had limited success mastering spoken or full sign languages. It is the culmination of over twenty years of research and development by the authors. The Simplified Sign System has been developed and tested for ease of sign comprehension memorization and formation by limiting the complexity of the motor skills required to form each sign and by ensuring that each sign visually resembles the meaning it conveys. Volume 1 outlines the research underpinning and informing the project and places the Simplified Sign System in a wider context of sign usage historically and by different populations. Volume 2 presents the lexicon of signs totalling approximately 1000 signs each with a clear illustration and a written description of how the sign is formed as well as a memory aid that connects the sign visually to the meaning that it conveys. While the Simplified Sign System originally was developed to meet the needs of persons with intellectual disabilities cerebral palsy autism or aphasia it may also assist the communication needs of a wider audience such as healthcare professionals aid workers military personnel travellers or parents and children who have not yet mastered spoken language. The system also has been shown to enhance learning for individuals studying a foreign language. Lucid and comprehensive this work constitutes a valuable resource that will enhance the communicative interactions of many different people and will be of great interest to researchers and educators alike Communication Disorders in Turkish Seyhun Topbaş, Mehmet Yavaş, 2010-04-30 This volume is the first to deal with Turkish communicative development and disorders reflecting the use of Turkish by a sizeable population in multilingual settings in Europe USA and Australia In addition to Speech language Pathologists the book will be of interest to professionals from related fields such as clinical linguistics psychology psycholinguistics neurolinguistics audiology and special education This book presents a compendium of information about the profession of speech language pathology cultural differences assessment materials and research done in communication disorders in Turkey It also covers acquisition and disorders in multilingual contexts where there is significant Turkish immigration Communication Sciences and Disorders Dale F. Williams, 2017-09-25 Few activities can match the complexity of human communication Given its intricacy it is understandable that the process will not always work properly When it doesn't the effects can be devastating given how much of everyday life depends on communicating with one another Despite its importance however much is still unclear about how we turn thoughts into language and then speech Debates rage over various components of the communication system Myths abound most based on nothing more than speculation and misinformation It all makes for a fascinating area of study and practice particularly when considering the importance of the topic This book provides readers with the basics of human communication without shying away from the controversies Dale F Williams Ph D utilizes a panel of internationally recognized experts in all areas of the field to clearly explain normal communication as well as disorders of speech language hearing and swallowing Topics that overlap all disorders diagnosis treatment research ethics work settings and multicultural issues are also covered in a reader friendly style In addition to the relevant information on human communication the book also includes first hand accounts of both people with disorders and those who work with them Discussion questions are posed to help readers explore the gray areas and additional readings are described for those wishing to research specific topics In these ways readers are provided with information that truly helps them to understand communication sciences and disorders from a variety of perspectives Communication Sciences and Disorders An Introduction to the Professions is essential reading for anyone contemplating a career in speech language pathology or audiology In addition the clear and entertaining writing style makes the field in all its complexity accessible to anyone with even a passing interest in the process of human communication
