Szabo, 2009-11-02 While it can be traced to the 1700s the term thanatology has gained traction in recent decades to refer to the study of death Because of the breadth of the published material and the challenges of discovery in large bibliographic databases and catalogs finding and identifying monographic material on death dying grief and bereavement can be extremely challenging Although there have been several bibliographical resources published on thanatology those titles were incomplete limited in scope or leaned heavily toward one area of the field In Death and Dying An Annotated Bibliography of the Thanatological Literature John F Szabo provides more than 2 200 citations of monographs on the science and study of death and dying Among the areas this volume addresses are the psychological philosophical and attitudinal aspects coping and dealing with the burdens of caregiving and working in the helping professions instructional and educational topics for practitioners primarily health care providers cultural differences in bereavement rituals and grief mourning and loss In addition notable titles on or relating to death and dying in popular culture death themes in literature methods of death or specific ethical policy or public issues are also included when they contribute important information to subject areas on which the book focuses This book will be helpful to students researchers academics caregivers health care professionals psychologists social workers and anyone with an

Crissman, 1994 James Crissman explores cultural traits related to death and dying in Appalachian sections of Tennessee Virginia Kentucky North Carolina and West Virginia showing how they have changed since the 1600s Relying on archival materials almost forty photographs and interviews with more than 400 mountain dwellers Crissman focuses on the importance of family and neighborliness in mountain society Written for both scholarly and general audiences the book contains sections on the death watch body preparation selection or construction of a coffin or casket digging the grave by hand the wake the funeral and other topics Crissman then demonstrates how technology and the encroachment of American society have turned these vital traditions into the disappearing practices of the past Death and Dying in Contemporary Japan Hikaru Suzuki, 2013 This book based on extensive original research explores the various ways in which Japanese people think about death and how they approach the process of dying and death It shows how new forms of funeral ceremonies have been developed by the funeral industry how traditional grave burial is being replaced in some cases by the scattering of ashes and forest mortuary ritual and how Japanese thinking on relationships the value of life and the afterlife are changing Throughout it assesses how these changes reflect changing social structures and social values Staircase to Heaven Tova Gamliel, 2024-09-13 Is there anyone who does not imagine the moment of their death Who is unaware of their steady march to the endline By suppressing and denying death Westerners overlook the positive side of death anxiety This ethnography fills this lacuna by describing a colorful and rich death culture among survivors of Holocaust and war who endure their last palpitations of life in a Tel Aviv old age home Unable to suppress the consciousness of end of life the protagonists climb a staircase to heaven among different fields of existence Resourcefully they transform their anxiety and suffering into paths of choice comforting each other filling their days with acts of respect and unity and replacing all consuming individualism with social existentialism and Judeo Christian religious ideas This book holds us up to an existential mirror that bridges old and young a geriatric institution and a concentration camp and natural death and tragic death induced by terrorism Law, Mind and Brain Michael Freeman, Oliver R. Goodenough, 2017-05-15 Over the past 20 years cognitive neuroscience has revolutionized our ability to understand the nature of human thought Working with the understandings of traditional psychology the new brain science is transforming many disciplines from economics to literary theory These developments are now affecting the law and there is an upsurge of interest in the potential of neuroscience to contribute to our understanding of criminal and civil law and our system of justice in general The international and interdisciplinary chapters in this volume are written by experts in criminal behaviour civil law and jurisprudence They concentrate on the potential of neuroscience to increase our understanding of blame and responsibility in such areas as juveniles and the death penalty evidence and procedure neurological enhancement and treatment property end of life choices contracting and the effects of words and pictures in law This collection suggests that legal scholarship and practice will be increasingly enriched by an interdisciplinary study of law mind and brain and is a valuable addition to the emerging field of neurolaw The Spiritual Lives of Bereaved Parents Dennis Klass, 2013-11-12 This book describes how parents lose find or relocate spiritual anchors after the death of their child It describes how ordinary people reconstruct their lives after their foundations have shifted and how they make sense of their world after one of their centers of meaning has been removed Klass grounds his descriptions of spirituality in his scholarly study of comparative religions and in his two decades studying the lives of bereaved parents He argues that continuing bonds with their dead children can give parents a new transcendent reality Deceased children like saints or bodhisattvas can offer a bridge between the profane and sacred worlds support parents as they find meaning in a world made forever poorer and bind together a community adequate to parents grief The book reports Klass's clinical practice and his work as advisor to a bereaved parents self help support group Aesthetics of Sorrow Tova Gamliel, 2014-04-21 Her interdisciplinary perspective and her focus on a uniquely female immigrant cultural practice will make this study fascinating reading for scholars of anthropology gender folklore psychology performance philosophy and sociology Toward More Family-Centered Family Sciences Howard M. Bahr, Kathleen S. Bahr, 2009-03-16 Much academic writing on families reflects the ideal of non involvement and distanced subject matter Toward More Family Centered Family Sciences suggests that the family sciences in their effort to be scientific have perpetuated this distance between researcher and subject to the detriment of both The authors argue that family and kinship ties are transcendent ties boundary crossing in numerous ways They place an emphasis on family love in contrast and in addition to romantic love and criticize current approaches for neglecting the importance of transcendent concepts such as love commitment respect and sacrifice in the development and well being of family structures Drawing from insights both inside and outside of academia the authors seek to reincorporate transcendent concepts into the study of the family as a unit of society They argue for a more collaborative family centered family science and offer recommendations for how family researchers might work to change the scientific monologue about families to a systemic dialogue with families
