Katz, 2017-07-28 Social critics and artificial intelligence experts have long prophesized that computers and robots would soon relegate humans to the dustbin of history Many among the general population seem to have shared this fear of a dehumanized future But how are people in the twenty first century actually reacting to the ever expanding array of gadgets and networks at their disposal Is computer anxiety a significant problem paralyzing and terrorizing millions or are ever proliferating numbers of gadgets being enthusiastically embraced Machines that Become Us explores the increasingly intimate relationship between people and their personal communication technologies In the first book of its kind internationally recognized scholars from the United States and Europe explore this topic Among the technologies analyzed include the Internet personal digital assistants PDAs mobile phones networked homes smart fabrics and wearable computers interactive location badges and implanted monitoring devices The authors discuss critical policy issues such as the problems of information resource access and equity and the recently discovered digital dropouts phenomena The use of the word become in the book's title has three different meanings The first suggests how people use these technologies to broaden their abilities to communicate and to represent themselves to others Thus the technologies become extensions and representatives of the communicators A second sense of become applies to analysis of the way these technologies become physically integrated with the user's clothing and even their bodies Finally contributors examine fashion aspects and uses of these technologies that is how they are used in ways becoming to the wearer The conclusions of many chapters are supported by data including ethnographic observations attitude surveys and case studies from the United States Britain France Italy Finland and Norway This approach is especially valuable The Inside Text R. Harper, L. Palen, A. Taylor, 2005-03-21 SMS or Text is one of the most popular forms of messaging Yet despite its immense popularity SMS has remained unexamined by science Not only that but the commercial organisations who have been forced to offer SMS by a demanding public have had very little idea why it has been successful Indeed they have until very recently planned to replace SMS with other messaging services such as MMS This book is the first to bring together scientific studies into the values that texting provides examining both cultural variation in countries as different as the Philippines and Germany as well as the differences between SMS and other communications channels like Instant Messaging and the traditional letter. It presents usability and design research which explores how SMS will evolve and what is likely to be the pattern of person to person messaging in the future. In short, The Inside Text is a fundamental resource for anyone interested in mobile communications at the start of the 21st Century.

Augmented Urban Spaces Fiorella De Cindio, 2016-04-08. There have been numerous possible scenarios depicted on the impact of the internet on urban spaces. Considering ubiquitous pervasive computing, mobile wireless connectivity and the acceptance of the Internet as a non extraordinary part of our everyday lives mean that physical urban space is augmented and digital in itself. This poses new problems as well as opportunities to those who have to deal with it. This book explores the intersection and articulation of physical and digital environments and the ways they can extend and reshape a spirit of place. It considers this from three main perspectives: the implications for the public sphere and urban public or semi public spaces; the implications for community regeneration and empowerment; and the dilemmas and challenges which the augmentation of space implies for urbanists. Grounded with international real life case studies, this is an up to date interdisciplinary and holistic overview of the relationships between cities, communities and high technologies.

This presents both problems and opportunities in the emergence of a new type of consumer and the effects of globalization on industry in terms of culture, economics, marketing and social issues at every scale from local to global. The main aim of the book is to enhance the reader's knowledge especially from a multidisciplinary perspective rather than from an individual functional perspective of international consumer behaviour. Professionals, students and researchers working in the fields of new technologies and information and communication technologies (ICT) as well as specialists of marketing and management are the target audience for this book. At the same time, the book will be pitched at a level so as to also appeal to a more general readership interested in globalization.
