Once there was a poor woodcutter who accidentally dropped his axe into the river while chopping down a tree. He felt really sad and started crying. A god who lived in the river heard him and came out to help.

The woodcutter explained what happened, and the god dove into the river to find the axe. When he came back, he was holding a shiny golden axe. He asked the woodcutter if it was his. But the woodcutter said no, his axe wasn't fancy like that.

So, the god went back into the river and came back with a silver axe. But again, the woodcutter said it wasn't his. Finally, the god dived one more time and brought back the woodcutter's old iron axe.

The woodcutter was really happy to have his axe back, and the god was impressed by his honesty. As a reward, the god gave him silver and gold axes in addition to his iron axe.

Reading And Understanding Short Stories:

A Cognitive Approach to Ernest Hemingway's Short Fiction Gabriela Tucan, 2021-04-09 How do readers make sense of Hemingway's short stories How is it possible that the camera like quality of his narrative can appeal to our senses and arouse our emotions How does it capture us With reserved narrators and protagonists engaged in laconic dialogs his texts do not seem to say much This book consciously revisits our responses to the Hemingway story a belated response to his invitation to discover what lies beneath the surface of his iceberg What this pioneering critical endeavor seeks to understand is the thinking required in reading Hemingway's short fiction It proposes a cognitively informed model of reading which questions the resources of the reader's imaginative powers The cognitive demonstrations here are designed to have potentially larger implications for the short story's general mode of knowing Drawing from both cognitively oriented poetics and narratology in equal measure this book explains what structures our interaction with literary texts Exercises and Tests on English Classics Mary Louise Harris, 1928

Short Stories, Knowledge and the Supernatural Amândio Reis, 2022-07-11 This book proposes a comparative approach to the supernatural short stories of Machado de Assis Henry James and Guy de Maupassant It offers an alternative to predominantly novel centric and Anglo centric perspectives on literary pre modernism by investigating a transnational and multilingual connection between genre theme and theory i e between the modern short story the supernatural and the problem of knowledge Incorporating a close analysis of the literary texts into a discussion of their historical context the book argues that Machado James and Maupassant explore and reinvent the supernatural short story as a metafictional genre This modernized and innovative form allows them to challenge the dichotomies and conventions of realist and supernatural fiction inviting their past and present readers to question common assumptions on reality and literary representation
