Security In A Changing World:

Security in a Changing World Volker Franke, 2002-03-30 The end of the Cold War has brought about significant changes in the political economic social and cultural structure of the international system Absent a distinct enemy and the threat of global thermonuclear war the United States today faces a host of new security challenges that require policymakers to make difficult decisions with significant domestic and international implications The range of conflicting goals expectations and capabilities demands fresh solutions to international conflicts and civil unrest new strategies for conducting peace support operations and the preparation of America s forces for completing operational assignments under increasingly uncertain conditions The case studies and exercises constructed for this book examine some of the most pertinent management leadership and accountability issues related to U S national security Each case places readers at the center of difficult decisions illustrates more general policy dilemmas and is designed to stimulate discussion of those issues beyond the classroom Cases highlight dilemmas at two levels pertaining specifically to the case and pertaining to its larger policy implications The absence of a one sided argument specific policy recommendations or logical conclusions enables readers to recognize the importance of the issues at hand and their greater policy implications and to discern lessons that might apply more generally to public policy administration and management Particularly useful in courses dealing with national security international relations public policy administration civil military relations and organizational management An instructor s manual is available upon request the subject concentrate on the links between climate change and agricultural production and do not extend to an analysis of the wider food system which underpins food security this book addresses the broader issues based on a novel food system concept and stressing the need for actions at a regional rather than just an international or local level It reviews new thinking which has emerged over the last decade analyses research methods for stakeholder engagement and for undertaking studies at the regional level and looks forward by reviewing a number of emerging hot topics in the food security GEC debate which help set new agendas for the research community at large Published with Earth System Science Partnership GECAFS and SCOPE
