Maps For Local Historians A Guide To The British Sources:

Historian's Guide to Early British Maps Helen Wallis, Anita McConnell, 1995-04-06 Great Britain and Ireland enjoy a rich cartographic heritage yet historians have not made full use of early maps in their writings and research This is partly due to a lack of information about exactly which maps are available With the publication of this volume from the Royal Historical Society we now have a comprehensive guide to the early maps of Great Britain The book is divided into two parts part one describes the history and purpose of maps in a series of short essays on the early mapping of the British Isles part two comprises a guide to the collections national and regional Now available from Cambridge University Press this volume provides an essential reference tool for anyone requiring to access maps of the British Isles dating back to the medieval period and beyond

Studies of Field Systems in the British Isles Alan R. H. Baker, 1973-07-19 An enormous amount of research into British field systems has been undertaken by historical geographers economic historians and others since H L Gray s classic work on English Field Systems was published This book both synthesizes and advances our knowledge of field systems in the British Isles

Sources for English Local History W. B. Stephens, 1973

Maps and Map-making in Local History Jacinta Prunty, 2004 This book introduces the local history practitioner to the world of maps the special character and appeal of maps as an historical source why they are invaluable in local history research and questions that must be asked of them The historical background to map creation in Ireland is outlined with details on the major classes of cartographic and associated material and the repositories wherein they may be found The Plantation series travel and county maps maps as part of published reports and journals military mapping estate and property mapping and maritime maps historic Ordnance Survey and Valuation Office maps and more recent OS mapping including the 1 50 000 Discovery series are discussed A section on essential map reading skills including matters of scale representation and accuracy will help equip the researcher to explore this coded world Step by step guidance for starting out to locate maps relevant to one s study area is provided Case studies of working with maps in local history are offered as practical examples of what can be done and guidelines for map making are also included

Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston, 2002-09-11 Most places in Britain have had a local history written about them Up until this century these histories have addressed more parochial issues such as the life of the manor rather than explaining the features and changes in the landscape in a factual manner Much of what is visible today in Britain s landscape is the result of a chain of social and natural processes and can be interpreted through fieldwork as well as from old maps and documents Michael Aston uses a wide range of source material to study the complex and dynamic history of the countryside illustrating his points with aerial photographs maps plans and charts He shows how to understand the surviving remains as well as offering his own explanations for how our landscape has evolved

Fundamentals of Cartography (Second Revised and Enlarged Edition) R.P. Misra, 2014-01-01 The first edition of Fundamentals of Cartography was published in 1969 by Prasara University of Mysore It was reprinted by the Concept Publishing Company New Delhi in

While the book remained in currency the cartographic processes changed drastically when information technology brought a sea of change in the sources of information drafting of maps and printing processes Drawing maps by hand became obsolete surveying whether ground or aerial was no longer the only major source of information In view of these changes it became necessary to bring out a new edition Realising that unless one knows directions scales projections coordinates ground and air surveys one would fail to understand the proper use of modern information technology in the drawing the maps Thus the contents of 1969 edition are retained and new chapters have been added to update the book In Part II of the book a chapter on Remote Sensing and Satellite Imageries has been added and Part V contains chapters on Computer Aided Cartography Geographic Information System GIS Land Information System LIS and Global Positioning System GPS Understanding Architecture Hazel Conway, Rowan Roenisch, 2005-07-22 First published in 1994 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Maps for the Local Historian John Brian Harley, 1972 English Historical Documents, 1189-1327 David Charles Douglas, Harry Rothwell, 1996 This is a collection of documents on English history Editorial comment is directed towards making sources intelligible rather than drawing conclusions from them Full account has been taken of modern textual criticism A general introduction to each volume portrays the character of the period under review and critical bibliographies have been added to assist further investigation Documents collected include treaties personal letters statutes military dispatches diaries declarations newspaper articles government and cabinet proceedings orders acts sermons pamphlets agricultural instructions charters grants guild regulations and voting records Volumes include genealogical tables lists of officials chronologies diagrams graphs and maps The New Nature of Maps J. B. Harley, 2002-10-03 In these essays the author draws on ideas in art history literature philosophy and the study of visual culture to subvert the traditional positivist model of cartography and replace it with one grounded in an iconological and semiotic theory of the nature of maps
