Richard W. Unger

Maps Make It Work:

Making Maps , How Maps Work Alan M. MacEachren, 2004-06-21 Now available in paperback for the first time this classic work presents a cognitive semiotic framework for understanding how maps work as powerful abstract and synthetic spatial representations Explored are the ways in which the many representational choices inherent in mapping interact with information processing and knowledge construction and how the resulting insights can be used to make informed symbolization and design decisions A new preface to the paperback edition situates the book within the context of contemporary technologies As the nature of maps continues to evolve Alan MacEachren emphasizes the ongoing need to think systematically about the ways people interact with and use spatial information Map Worlds Will C. van den Hoonaard, 2013-09-21 Map Worlds plots a journey of discovery through the world of women map makers from the golden age of cartography in the sixteenth century Low Countries to tactile maps in contemporary Brazil Author Will C van den Hoonaard examines the history of women in the profession sets out the situation of women in technical fields and cartography related organizations and outlines the challenges they face in their careers Map Worlds explores women as colourists in early times describes the major houses of cartographic production and delves into the economic function of intermarriages among cartographic houses and families It relates how in later centuries working from the margins women produced maps to record painful tribal memories or sought to remedy social injustices Much later one woman so changed the way we think about continents that the shift has been likened to the Copernican revolution Other women created order and wonder about the lunar landscape and still others turned the art and science of making maps inside out exposing the hidden unconscious and subliminal text of maps Shared by all these map makers are themes of social justice and making maps work for the betterment of humanity Re-Making Communication at Work J. Sostrin, 2013-11-07 Almost 400 years ago philosophers John Locke and David Hume implicitly defined communication as a tool for the transmission of pure ideas stating that the ideas themselves are what matter not the way in which they are expressed and exchanged Now known as the transmission model this form of communication is still the foundation for academic courses in communication theory and practice and is embedded in most business literature and education that address subjects related to workplace communication organization behavior and culture leadership and conflict resolution But what if this accepted model of communication was incomplete Re Making Communication at Work argues that the transmission model of communication needs to be replaced by a new approach to communication Sostrin challenges the status quo by exposing the most common myths that inaccurately define successful communication at work These misperceptions are replaced by a set of core principles that deliver a clear mandate for re making communication at work Sostrin not only provides the theoretical foundation for this new approach but he uses a straightforward model and exercises that demonstrate how managers students and consultants can powerfully improve relationships decision making and collaboration with a few lines and circles

Maps and Related Cartographic Materials Mary L. Larsgaard, 2000-03-03 Make maps and other cartographic materials more easily accessible and usable Maps and Related Cartographic Materials Cataloging Classification and Bibliographic Control is a format focused reference manual for catalogers that should occupy a prominent place on your reference shelf Outside of standard cartographic cataloging t Ships on Maps Richard W. Unger, 2010-08-04 Renaissance map makers produced ever more accurate descriptions of geography which were also beautiful works of art They filled the oceans Europeans were exploring with ships and to describe the real ships which were the newest and best products of technology Above all the ships were there to show the European conquest of the seas of the world Science John Michels, 1929
