Galaty, William A. Parkinson, 2007-12-31 This revised and expanded edition of the classic 1999 edited book includes all the chapters from the original volume plus a new updated introduction and several new chapters The current book is an up to date review of research into Mycenaean palatial systems with chapters by archaeologists and Linear B specialists that will be useful to scholars instructors and advanced students This book aims to define more accurately the term palace in light of both recent archaeological research in the Aegean and current anthropological thinking on the structure and origin of early states Regional centers do not exist as independent entities They articulate with more extensive sociopolitical systems The concept of palace needs to be incorporated into enhanced models of Mycenaean state organization ones that more completely integrate primary centers with networks of regional settlement and economy AMILLA Robert B Koehl, 2013-07-31 Contributions by 34 scholars are brought together here to create a volume in honor of the long and fruitful career of Guenter Kopcke who is the Avalon Foundation Professor in the Humanities at the Institute of Fine Arts New York University Articles pertain to various topics on the ancient art architecture and archaeology of the greater Eastern Mediterranean region from Pre Dynastic Egypt to the Bronze Age Aegean and Anatolia Cyprus and the Near East and Etruscan Italy Settlement, Subsistence, and Social Complexity Richard E. Blanton, 2006-12-31 This volume brings together the work of some of the most prominent archaeologists to document the impact of Jeffrey R Parsons on contemporary archaeological method and theory Parsons is a central figure in the development of settlement pattern archaeology in which the goal is the study of whole social systems at the scale of regions In recent decades regional archaeology has revolutionized how we understand the past contributing new data and theoretical insights on topics such as early urbanism social interactions among cities towns and villages and long term population and agricultural change among many other topics relevant to the study of early civilizations and the evolution of social complexity Over the past 40 years the application of these methods by Parsons and others has profoundly changed how we understand the evolution of pre Hispanic Mesoamerican civilization and now similar methods are being applied in other world areas The book s emphasis is on the contribution of settlement pattern archaeology to research in pre Hispanic Mesoamerica but its authors also point to the value of regional research in South America South Asia and China Topics addressed include early urbanism household and gender agricultural and craft production migration ethnogenesis the evolution of early chiefdoms and the emergence of pre modern world systems The Tiled-Roof Phenomenon in Early Helladic Greece Kyle A. Jazwa, 2024-08-01 This study presents the Early Helladic II ceramic roofing tile fragments from Zygouries a site excavated by Carl Blegen more than a century ago It is the first publication of an entire assemblage of Early Helladic roofing tiles an oft neglected find on archaeological sites Details about the tiles forms features and variability are presented first followed by a production oriented analysis reconstructing much of the chaîne opératoire and complementary volumetric and energetic analyses The results of these studies allow for the local reception and sociopolitical implications of Zygouries s ceramic tiled roof to be explored The assemblage is then contextualized alongside other Early Helladic roofing tile assemblages and the material culture of the period to gain a clearer understanding of the broader cultural significance of such tiled roofs The Kingdom of Pylos Sharon R. Stocker, Claire L. Lyons, Jack L.

postulated Side-by-Side Survey Susan Alcock, John Cherry, 2016-10-02 Twenty years ago John Cherry looked forward to the day when archaeological survey projects working around the Mediterranean region the Frogs round the pond would begin to compare and synthesize the information they had collected He anticipated researchers tackling big questions of interregional scope in new and interesting ways working at a geographical scale considerably larger than that of the individual survey Was his optimism misplaced Despite the extraordinary growth of interest in field survey projects and regional analysis and despite the developments in survey methodology that have been discussed and implemented in the past two decades few scholars have attempted to use survey data in a comparative mode and to answer the broad scale questions confronting social historians In this volume which is the outcome of an advanced Workshop held at the University of Michigan in 2002 a number of prominent archaeologists return to the question of comparability They discuss the potential benefits of working in a comparative format with evidence from many different Mediterranean survey projects and consider the practical problems that present roadblocks to achieving that objective From mapping and manuring to human settlement and demography environment and culture each addresses different questions often with quite different approaches together they offer a range of perspectives on how to put surveys side by side Contributors include Susan E Alcock John Cherry Jack L Davis Peter Attema Martijn van Leusen James C Wright Robin Osborne David Mattingly T J Wilkinson and Richard E Blanton to both the larger archaeological and historical discourse The essays in this volume are organized under three headings Archaeology and Method the Archaeology of Identity and the Changing Landscape which highlight three main focuses of Gregory s research Each essay interlaces new analyses with the contributions Gregory has made to our understanding of Medieval and Post Medieval Greece Read together these essays not only make a significant contribution to how we understand the post Classical Greek world but also to how we study the material culture of the Mediterranean world more broadly
