Reading and Writing in the Global Workplace Beatrice Quarshie Smith, 2012-06-14 Reading and Writing in the Global Workplace Gender Literacy and Outsourcing in Ghana by Beatrice Quarshie Smith explores the conditions that underlie the outsourcing of US data processing work in Ghana Here Beatrice Quarshie Smith describes the convergence and interplay of at least four different socio economic forces 1 the digital and satellite technology enabling virtual environments for global outsourced data processing 2 the historical development of Ghana as a politically stable Anglophone society with a relatively strong tradition of public education 3 the neoliberal economic restructuring policies advanced by the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund and 4 the ready availability of women seeking to enter the formal wage economy either to seek independence from their roles within traditional families or in order to support their families The author s comparative study of two distinctly different workplaces reveals significant insights about problems of organizational hierarchy and management employee relations in the cross cultural environments of out sourced business and IT process work Through extensive interviews the book sheds light on the educational backgrounds day to day struggles fears and aspirations of the workers Quarshie Smith develops this multi faceted analysis with keen insights into the representational limitations and ethical responsibilities of the researcher This pioneering study about outsourced data processing work in West Africa opens up a new area for research and offers a fresh perspective from which to consider outsourcing in other regions of the globe

Sustainability Challenges and Solutions at the Base of the Pyramid Prabhu Kandachar, Minna Halme, 2017-09-08 Around the turn of the millennium it had become painfully evident that development aid charity or global business as usual were not going to be the mechanisms to alleviate global poverty Today there is little dispute that poverty remains the most pressing global problem calling for innovative solutions One recent strategy is the Base of the Pyramid BoP concept developed by Prahalad and Hart which relies on entrepreneurial activity tapping into the previously ignored markets of the economically most disadvantaged It is a process requiring innovations in several disciplines technological social and business This book covers a number of areas First much of the current BoP discussion emphasises targeting products to the needs of the poor But do we actually know what the real needs of the poor are This book takes a bottom up human centred approach and examines examples that truly engage the poor in BoP product and service development What types of needs assessment methodologies are indicated considering the cultural differences in BoP countries Are the existing methodologies adequate Do they need to be redefined and redeveloped Second the book considers how we can balance poverty alleviation and stimulate economic growth without stressing the ecosystem Tragically the poor are hardest hit by the adverse effects of environmental deterioration such as water shortages climate change or the destruction of habitats While the economic welfare of the poor is critical the BoP approach must balance its inherent paradox of encouraging greater consumption while avoiding further pressures on environmental sustainability The link between the BoP approach and sustainable development is a key feature of this book Third it looks at innovation and asks what kinds of bottom up innovation open source technological social and business support BoP initiatives and sustainable development Fourth the book deals with the relationship between development assistance and BoP Is a BoP strategy the antithesis to development aid or can these two co exist or even complement each other Finally the book raises questions about the relationship between corporate responsibility and BoP Is BoP a new form of corporate neo colonialism or a new form of corporate responsibility Although the BoP concept has unleashed an extensive and generally enthusiastic response from academics businesses NGOs and governments the knowledge domain around this concept is still in the early stages of development This book addresses that need with a focus on the needs of the end users the poor as a starting point for BoP products and innovations With contributions from both supporters and critics it provides a treasure trove of global knowledge on how the concept has developed what its successes and failures have been and what promise it holds as a long term strategy for alleviating poverty and tackling global sustainability

Managing the New Schoolhouse Mary-Ellen Boyle,1997 Over the past decade the changes in the US economy the transformation of work and workplaces and the topic of labor force preparedness have received scholarly and pragmatic attention As one result employers have increased their direct sponsorship of various types of education and training programs for their employees This sponsorship has been justified by a managerial rhetoric that is rooted in American educational ideology the extent to which rhetoric and reality overlap is the concern here Unprecedented in scope and prevalence employer sponsored education suggests somewhat of a new role for employers and raises questions concerning the connection between such educational endeavors and larger organizational and social changes Through the study of employer sponsored literacy programs this dissertation investigates the extent to which the workplace has become the new schoolhouse Relying upon manager interviews as primary methodology the motives processes and consequences intended and unintended are examined to determine the tangible and symbolic functions of workplace literacy programs and their significance for managers involved Using theories of neofunctionalism exchange control and institutionalism the following conclusions are suggested these programs have multiple and sometimes contradictory meanings for middle managers literacy is functional for the individuals organizations and society in numerous ways and education can be understood as a contract shaping event in the negotiation of a new employment relationship for managers and workers The institutional context is analyzed as well Understanding of employer sponsored literacy education allows insight into the evolving relationships between education and the economy employer and employee middle manager and environment "Eyes on
