Regulating Utilities Understanding The Issues:

Leading Issues in Competition, Regulation, and Development Paul Cook, 2004-01-01 The promotion of liberalized and deregulated markets by bilateral and multilateral aid donors and by global institutions such as the WTO has led to significant attention being paid to competition and regulatory reforms in developing economies The process of reform involves the transfer and diffusion of market models derived from practice and theory in developed countries However in developing countries regulation needs to do more than simply promote competitiveness and consumer interests it also needs to ensure that the market nurtures development By rigorously examining the numerous impacts of regulation this book will help to fill a significant gap in the literature on economic and social development The book now available in paperback draws together contributions from leading experts across a range of disciplines including economics law politics and governance public management and business management The authors begin with an extensive overview of the issues of regulation and competition in developing countries and carefully illustrate the important themes and concepts involved Using a variety of country and sector case studies they move on to focus on the problems of applicability and adaptation that are experienced in the process of transferring best practice policy models from developed to developing countries The book presents a clear agenda for further empirical research and is notable for its rigorous exploration of the links between theory and practice Although there is substantial interest in competition and regulation as yet there has been relatively little investigation of these issues in developing economies This book redresses the balance and will be a valuable resource for researchers academics teachers and students interested in development economics and development studies It will also be of great relevance for practitioners and policymakers working in the fields of competition policy and regulatory reform

Regulating Development Edmund Amann, 2006 Regulating Development examines the impact that regulation good or bad can have on the development of poorer societies It opens with a succinct review of critical issues including the implications of the spread of intellectual property rights legislation and the role of the World Trade Organisation WTO The volume examines the regulatory experiences of three important developing economies Brazil Ghana and South Africa Key regulatory themes are analysed most notably capital markets and corporate governance regulation the regulation of the telecommunications sector and the use of regulatory reforms to promote the development of small and medium sized enterprises Within each chapter policy lessons are drawn the relevance of which extend well beyond national or even regional boundaries The principal aim of the book is to show the extent to which regulation is moving increasingly to centre stage as a driver of development in Africa and Latin America The book also demonstrates how thoughtful well planned regulation can make a real contribution to the emergence of supply side competitiveness This book will be invaluable reading for academics researchers and students with an interest in economics and development studies as well as for regulators and policymakers in developing countries

The Anticompetitive Impact of Regulation Giuliano Amato, Laraine L. Laudati, 2001-01-01. This timely book addresses the important issue of the negative effects of anticompetitive regulation on industry and the massive economic harm it causes. The distinguished contributors, including economic and legal scholars, advocate the need for a review of all anticompetitive laws and address several industry and country case studies with the ultimate aim of providing recommendations to eliminate the impact of anticompetitive regulation. The first part of the book considers regulations affecting private business and professions; part two covers public utility and public services regulation; whilst part three discusses the role of institutions and competition authorities in relation to anticompetitive practices. The authors draft guidelines based on economic evidence and legal arguments which they believe would provide a starting point for the European Union to address the problem. They go on to propose possible implementation strategies for these guidelines from both an institutional and legal perspective. The book also includes a historical perspective on the evolution of anticompetitive regulation complemented by an overview of the actions currently being implemented to address and reverse the problem in other jurisdictions.

International Handbook on Privatization David Parker, David S. Saal, 2003-01-01. Privatization has dominated industrial restructuring programs since the 1980s and continues to do so. This authoritative and accessible Handbook considers all aspects of this key issue, including the theory of privatization, privatization in transition, developed and developing economies as well as the economic regulation of privatized industries.

In the Public Interest Stephen Wilks, 1999. This book brings together for the first time five French directors who have established themselves as among the most exciting and significant working today: Bruno Dumont, Robert Guéguen, Laurent Cantet, Abdellatif Kechiche and Claire Denis. Whatever their chosen habitats or shifting terrains, each of these highly distinctive auteurs has developed unique strategies of representation and framing that reflect a profound investment in the geophysical world. The book proposes that we think about cinematographic space in its many different forms: simultaneously, screenspace, landscape, narrative space, soundscape, spectatorial space. Through a series of close and original readings of selected films, it posits a new space of the cinematic subject. Accessible and wide-ranging, this volume opens up new areas of critical enquiry in the expanding interdisciplinary field of space studies. It will be of immediate interest to students and researchers working not only in film studies and film philosophy but also in French Francophone studies.
