Theorising Religion John Walliss,2017-10-24 Religion is controversial and challenging Whilst religious forces are powerful in numerous societies they have little or no significance for wide swaths of public or private life in other places The task of theoretical work in the sociology of religion is therefore to make sense of this apparently paradoxical situation in which religion is simultaneously significant and insignificant The chapters of Part One consider the classical roots of ideas about religion that dominated sociological ways of thinking about it for most of the twentieth century Each chapter offers sound reasons for continuing to find theoretical inspiration and challenge in the sociological classics whilst also seeking ways of enhancing and extending their relevance to religion today Part Two contains chapters that open up fresh perspectives on aspects of modern post modern and ultra modern religion without necessarily ignoring the classical legacy The chapters of Part Three chart new directions for the sociological analysis of religion by fundamentally re thinking its theoretical basis by extending its disciplinary boundaries and by examining previously overlooked topics

Muslims in Britain Peter Hopkins, 2009-03-31 Following the events of 11th September 2001 in the USA and more especially the bombings on the London underground on 7th July 2005 and the incident at Glasgow Airport on 30th June 2007 an increasing amount of public attention has been focused upon Muslims in Britain Against the backdrop of this debate this book sets out a series of innovative insights into the everyday lives of Muslims living in contemporary Britain in an attempt to move beyond prevalent stereotypes concerning what it means to be Muslim Combining original empirical research with theoretical interventions this collection offers a range of reflections on how Muslims in Britain negotiate their everyday lives manage experiences of racism and exclusion and develop local networks and global connections The authors explore a broad range of themes including gender relations educational and economic issues migration and mobility religion and politics racism and Islamophobia and the construction and contestation of Muslim identities Threaded through the treatment of these themes is a unifying concern with the ways in which geography matters to how Muslims negotiate their daily experiences as well as their racialised gendered and religious identities Above all attention is focused upon the role of the home and local community the influence of the economy and the nation and the power of transnational connections and mobilities in the everyday lives of Muslims in Britain Includes contributions from Louise Archer Yahya Birt Sophie Bowlby Claire Dwyer Richard Gale Peter Hopkins Lily Kong Sally Lloyd Evans Sean McLoughlin Sharmina Mawani Tariq Modood Anjoom Mukadam Caroline Nagel Deborah Phillips Bindi Shah and Lynn Staeheli Negotiating Boundaries in the City Joanna Herbert, 2016-04-22 Using in depth life story interviews and oral history archives this book explores the impact of South Asian migration from the 1950s onwards on both the local white British born population and the migrants themselves Taking Leicester as a main case study identified as a European model of multicultural success Negotiating Boundaries in the City offers a historically grounded analysis of the human experiences of migration Joanna Herbert shows how migration created challenges for both existing residents and newcomers for both male and female migrants and explores how they perceived and negotiated boundaries within the local contexts of their everyday lives She explores the personal and collective narratives of individuals who might not otherwise appear in the historical records highlighting the importance of subjective everyday experiences The stories provide valuable insights into the nature of white ethnicity inter ethnic relations and the gendered nature of experiences and offer rich data lacking in existing theoretical accounts This book provides a radically different story about multicultural Britain and reveals the nuances of modern urban experiences which are lost in prevailing discourses of multiculturalism International Handbook of Urban Education William T. Pink, George W.

Noblit, 2008-09-03 It is evident that urban education has become the central focus of educators at the present time In the U S for example almost one third of all school age children attend schools in large urban school districts It is in these urban schools where the diversity of cultures and languages is highest and where student learning is most problematic What has emerged from recent work to improve urban schools is the insight that there is no one size fits all panacea Rather we have discovered that the local context shapes in critically important ways what will be effective at the school level The universality of the problematics with urban education together with the importance of understanding the local or situated context of improvement interventions brings into sharp focus the importance and timeliness of an undertaking like the International Handbook of Urban Education An important focus of the International Handbook of Urban Education will be the interrogation of both the social and political factors that lead to different problem posing and subsequent solutions within each region An important question to be answered for example is what it takes in terms of resources political will and policy actions to improve urban education
