Marching With Wellington With The Enniskillings Through The Peninsula To Waterloo:

Marching with Wellington Martin Cassidy, 2003-07-19 Compiled from hitherto unpublished diaries and letters this book tells of the dangers and rigors of life as experienced by the Infantry during the Napoleonic Wars A superbly researched work by an expert historian it captures the atmosphere of the era with total immediacy made possible only because the writers were actually there

The Very Thing Jonathan Crook, 2011-02-21 Drummer Richard Bentinck of the 23rd of Foot Royal Welch Fusiliers was a rarity he survived many sanguinary experiences and recorded his adventures His writings provide an evocative portrait of an ordinary soldier's perception of living with one of the most experienced Napoleonic infantry battalions He was discharged in 1823 for ill health but lived a full life dying in 1878 as an old man Jonathan Crook has meticulously researched his ancestor's life finding unpublished first hand accounts from Bentinck of desperate conflict across the globe from Copenhagen to Martinique throughout the Peninsular Campaign and culminating at the battle of Waterloo These accounts are drawn from interviews that Bentinck conducted with a journalist just before his death The title of the book is taken from the Battle of Aldea de Ponte Wellington identified a tactical vulnerability and called for infantry to conduct an immediate manoeuvre On being informed that the 23rd of Foot was best disposed he smiled and said Ah the very thing demonstrative of his hard earned confidence

Cavalry in the Waterloo Campaign Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, V.C. G.C.B., 2012-05-01 Napoleon wrote Cavalry is useful before during and after the battle and so it was with his final campaign of Waterloo Few campaigns of the Napoleonic Wars are as instructive as to the use and mis use of cavalry from the lethal French cavalry at Quatre Bras to the initially brilliant but ultimately badly executed British heavies charging at Waterloo itself Sir Evelyn Wood himself had served in the cavalry for many years and wrote extensively on the subject his expertise brought to bear on illuminating the cavalry actions of the short but epoch shaping Waterloo Campaign Field Marshal Wood was a man of enormous military experience having fought with distinction in the Crimea India the Zulu and Boer wars It was during the Indian Mutiny that he was awarded a Victoria Cross for selflessly leading his troop of cavalry against rebel forces and rescuing a local merchant from being hung by bandits Title
