Mipes Labouring To Learn:

From Labouring to Learning Michael R.M. Ward, 2016-04-29 Highly Commended in the Society of Educational Studies Book Prize This book explores how economic changes and the growing importance of educational qualifications in a shrinking labour market particularly effects marginalized young men It follows a group of young working class men in a de industrial community and challenges commonly held representations that often appear in the media and in policy discourses which portray them as feckless out of control educational failures and lacking aspiration Ward argues that for a group of young men in a community of social and economic deprivation expectations and transitions to adulthood are framed through the industrial legacy of geographically and historically shaped class and gender codes These codes have an impact on what it means to be a man and what behaviour is deemed acceptable and what is not

Learning to Labour in Post-Soviet Russia Charles Walker, 2010-11-12 This book explores the changing nature of growing up working class in post Soviet Russia a country dislocated by the experience of neo liberal economic reform Based on extensive ethnographic research in a provincial Russian region it follows the experiences of vocational education graduates whose colleges continue to channel them into the ailing industrial and agricultural sectors Rather than settling for transitions into poor work the book shows how these young men and women develop a range of strategies aimed at overcoming the poverty of opportunity available to them in traditional enterprises pursuing instead emerging opportunities in higher education jobs in the new service sector and the prospect of migration Drawing on a range of theoretical perspectives Charles Walker analyses these strategies and their significance for wider processes of social change and social stratification in post Soviet Russia

Labour Dept,1901 Writings and Translations of Miles Coverdale, Bishop of Exeter Miles Coverdale,2006-02-16 The Parker Society was the London based Anglican society that printed in fifty four volumes the works of the leading English Reformers of the sixteenth century It was formed in 1840 and disbanded in 1855 when its work was completed Named after Matthew Parker the first Elizabethan Archbishop of Canterbury who was known as a great collector of books the stimulus for the foundation of the society was provided by the Tractarian movement led by John Henry Newman and Edward B Pusey Some members of this movement spoke disparagingly of the English Reformation and so some members of the Church of England felt the need to make available in an attractive form the works of the leaders of that Reformation *Thoughts on Prison Labour, etc. ... at all levels has been seriously impoverished by a growing obsession with standards targets skills and competences According to this model only a circumscribed range of basic cognitive skills and competences are the business of education whose main role is to provide employability credentials for people competing for jobs in the global economy The result is a one dimensional economistic and bleakly utilitarian conception of the educational task In Mindfulness and Learning Celebrating the Affective Dimension of Education Terry Hyland advances the thesis that education stands in need of a rejuvenation of its affective function the impact it has on the emotional social moral and personal development of learners Drawing on the Buddhist conception of mindfulness he advances a powerful argument for redressing this imbalance by enhancing the affective domain of learning Mindfulness and Learning Celebrating the Affective Dimension of Education shows how the concept and practice of mindfulness non judgmental present moment awareness and experience can enrich learning at all levels Mindfulness thus contributes to the enhanced achievement of general educational goals and helps remedy the gross deficiency of the affective emotional aspects of contemporary theory and practice The author outlines a mindfulness based affective education MBAE programme and shows how it might be introduced into educational provision from the early years to adult education with a view to harmonising the cognitive affective balance across the system
