Miracle A Universe Settling Accounts With Torturers:

A Miracle, A Universe Lawrence Weschler, 1998-07 I A MIRACLE A UNIVERSE Transitional Justice Neil J. Kritz, 1995 Foreword Nelson Mandela Mainstreaming Torture Rebecca Gordon, 2014-04-08 The terrorist attacks of September 11 2001 reopened what many people in America had long assumed was a settled ethical question Is torture ever morally permissible Within days some began to suggest that in these new circumstances the new answer was yes Rebecca Gordon argues that September 11 did not as some have said change everything and that institutionalized state torture remains as wrong today as it was on the day before those terrible attacks Furthermore U S practices during the war on terror are rooted in a history that began long before September 11 a history that includes both support for torture regimes abroad and the use of torture in American jails and prisons Gordon argues that the most common ethical approaches to torture utilitarianism and deontology ethics based on adherence to duty do not provide sufficient theoretical purchase on the problem Both approaches treat torture as a series of isolated actions that arise in moments of extremity rather than as an ongoing historically and socially embedded practice She advocates instead a virtue ethics approach based in part on the work of Alasdair MacIntyre Such an approach better illumines torture s ethical dimensions taking into account the implications of torture for human virtue and flourishing An examination of torture s effect on the four cardinal virtues courage temperance justice and prudence or practical reason suggests specific ways in which each of these are deformed in a society that countenances torture Mainstreaming Torture concludes with the observation that if the United States is to come to terms with its involvement in institutionalized state torture there must be a full and official accounting of what has been done and those responsible at the highest levels must be held accountable Human Rights of Women Rebecca J. Cook, 2012-03-10 Rebecca J Cook and the contributors to this volume seek to analyze how international human rights law applies specifically to women in various cultures worldwide and to develop strategies to promote equitable application of human rights law at the international regional and domestic levels Their essays present a compelling mixture of reports and case studies from various regions in the world combined with scholarly assessments of international law as these rights specifically apply to women

An Introduction to Transitional Justice Olivera Simić, 2020-07-30 The Second Edition of An Introduction to Transitional Justice provides a comprehensive overview of transitional justice judicial and non judicial measures implemented by societies to redress legacies of massive human rights abuse Written by some of the leading experts in the field it takes a broad interdisciplinary approach to the subject addressing the dominant transitional justice mechanisms as well as key themes and challenges faced by scholars and practitioners Using a wide historic and geographic range of case studies to illustrate key concepts and debates and featuring discussion questions and suggestions for further reading this is an essential introduction to the subject for students Refugee Women and Their Mental Health Ellen Cole, Esther D

Rothblum, Oliva M Espin, 2013-05-13 Currently there are over 15 million legally designated refugees all over the world and it is documented that 75 percent of those refugees are women yet most of the existent literature does not focus on this group as women. Most of the literature focuses on political economic and social issues with very little reference to the mental health implications of the refugees' experiences as women. Refugee Women and Their Mental Health begins to fill this paucity of information on female refugees' experiences. A book of immediate interest, Refugee Women and Their Mental Health focuses on understanding the plight of women refugees around the world with an emphasis on mental health. The book adds successful and innovative treatment and recovery models for these women survivors. Some of the chapters are written by women who are therapists, psychologists now and who have been refugees themselves. This adds additional insight into the plight and resulting mental health problems of refugee women. The chapters cover a vast range of topics: torture and sexual abuse as refugees, victims of state violence, elderly women refugees, immigration law and women refugees, first person narratives, the transformation of identity, successful creative treatment programs. It becomes clear that women refugees from all over the world, under different political events and circumstances, share common values and have similar mental health needs. Refugee Women and Their Mental Health explores processes of recovery from the traumas experienced by these women and offers a variety of models for the application of feminist theory to the plight of women refugees. Experienced therapists of women and those in training to be therapists will want to read this book. The topics of refugee women rarely comes up in training programs so the information in this book is vital for therapists, policy makers and other service providers and professors of psychology of women, immigration and social work issues and women and mental health issues.

Shattered Voices Teresa Godwin Phelps, 2004. This vivid and moving book will help shape the emerging form of truth commissions in many places around the world. James Boyd White, author of The Edge of Meaning. The New New Journalism Robert Boynton, 2007-12-18. Forty years after Tom Wolfe, Hunter S. Thompson and Gay Talese launched the New Journalism movement, Robert S. Boynton sits down with nineteen practitioners of what he calls the New New Journalism to discuss their methods, writings and careers. The New New Journalists are first and foremost brilliant reporters who immerse themselves completely in their subjects. Jon Krakauer accompanies a mountaineering expedition to Everest. Ted Conover works for nearly a year as a prison guard. Susan Orlean follows orchid fanciers to reveal an obsessive subculture few knew existed. Adrian Nicole LeBlanc spends nearly a decade reporting on a family in the South Bronx. And like their muckraking early twentieth century precursors, they are drawn to the most pressing issues of the day: Alex Kotlowitz, Leon Dash and William Finnegan to race and class; Ron Rosenbaum to the problem of evil; Michael Lewis to boom and bust economies; Richard Ben Cramer to the nitty gritty of politics. How do they do it? In these interviews, they reveal the techniques and inspirations behind their acclaimed works: from their felt tip pens, tape recorders, long car rides and assumed identities to their intimate understanding of the way a truly great story unfolds. Interviews with Gay Talese, Jane Kramer, Calvin Trillin, Richard Ben Cramer, Ted Conover, Alex Kotlowitz, Richard Preston, William Langewiesche, Eric Schlosser, Leon Dash, William Cardinal Arnáez and progressive Catholics was a major point of resistance to military dictatorship. It is also a city in which Protestant Pentecostal churches especially have enjoyed explosive growth. Berryman's sure-footed feel for what is happening gives the reader a concrete feel for what is happening in both Protestant and Catholic communities. Caracas, Berryman shows, is a very different kind of megacity, one that a Protestant missionary called the Secular City, a place where the relative wealth and consumer lifestyle make it hard for the Gospel to take hold. Catholic and Protestant churches in Caracas face challenges quite different from those of São Paulo. Religion in the Megacity explores those similarities and differences within the respective cities and between them. Berryman breaks new ground in showing the way in which Catholics and Protestants face similar situations and he does so in a dynamic, readable style that gives the reader insights from knowledgeable men and women on the ground who show that facile stereotypes about what is happening in Latin America today need to be corrected.

How the Military Remembers Cynthia E. Milton, Michael Lazzara, 2015-07-22 This groundbreaking collection of essays examines how Latin American militaries construct memories of past human rights violations in ways that challenge established public memory and human rights discourse. While previous studies have focused on democratization, transitional justice, and victim-centered narratives, this volume takes a different approach. It highlights the importance of deconstructing the military's own active memory work or their counter-memories, a term the editors use to describe military narratives that are both counterintuitive and that run counter to the victim-oriented memories that have long dominated the region's public memory. With attention to the distinct cultural, political, and historical contexts across Latin America, the essays reveal how military figures and institutions appropriate mechanisms of truth-telling and accountability to reframe the past, blur the lines between perpetrator and victim, and weaponize memory itself. Contributors: Mariana Achugar, Gabriela Fried, Amilivia Rebecca Atencio, Jo Marie Burt, Rachel Hatcher, Nicolás Rodríguez Idroga, Michael J. Lazzara, Cynthia E. Milton, Carla Granados Moya, María Emma Wills Obregón, Leith Passmore, Valentina Salvi, Gladys Viquez Zevallos. Reconciliation, Nations and Churches in Latin America Iain S. Maclean, 2016-04-22 This book examines the recent phenomenon in Latin America of national Truth and Reconciliation commissions. Few studies have examined the role of Churches or religion in political processes that proclaim valued theological terms as their agenda: truth, forgiveness, and reconciliation. This book questions the role of religion, specifically of established Churches. The impact of such reconciliation commissions on Indigenous Native Americans is also examined, as is the role of women and how both commissions and Churches or religions were challenged by their experiences. The contributors offer differing perspectives on one or more national truth and reconciliation processes and thus offer a collection that serves as a valuable source for the disciplines of Religious Studies, Ethics, Theology, Political Science, Social Sciences, and Women's Studies. Truth Commissions and Procedural Fairness Mark Freeman, 2006-08-14 This is the first law book devoted entirely to the subject of truth commissions. The book sets forth standards of procedural fairness aimed at protecting the rights of those who come into contact with truth commissions, primarily victims and their families, witnesses, and perpetrators The aim of the book is to provide recommended criteria of procedural fairness for five possible components of a truth commission's mandate: the taking of statements, the use of subpoenas, the exercise of powers of search and seizure, the holding of victim-centered public hearings, and the publication of findings of individual responsibility in a final report, sometimes called the issue of naming names. The book draws on the experience of past and present truth commissions, analogous national and multilateral investigative bodies, and international and comparative standards of procedural fairness.

A Kidnapping in Milan: The CIA on Trial Steve Hendricks, 2010-10-11 Hendricks reveals the riveting true story of the CIA snatch of a radical imam in Italy. International Handbook of Violence Research Wilhelm Heitmeyer, John Hagan, 2005-08-12 An international manual is like a world cruise: a once-in-a-lifetime experience. All the more reason to consider carefully whether it is necessary. This can hardly be the case if previous research in the selected field has already been the subject of an earlier review or even several competing surveys. On the other hand, more thorough study is necessary if the intensity and scope of research are increasing without comprehensive assessments. That was the situation in Western societies when work began on this project in the summer of 1998. It was then too that the challenges emerged: any manual, especially an international one, is a very special type of text which is anything but routine. It calls for a special effort: the state of the art has to be documented for selected subject areas and its presentation made as compelling as possible. The editors were delighted therefore by the cooperation and commitment shown by the eighty-one contributors from ten countries who were recruited to write on the sixty-two different topics by the constructive way in which any requests for changes were dealt with and by the patient response to our many queries. This volume is the result of a long process. It began with the first drafts outlining the structure of the work which were submitted to various distinguished colleagues: Friedhelm Neidhardt of Berlin, Gertrud Nunner-Winkler of Munich, and Roland Eckert of Trier, to name only a few, who supplied valuable comments at this stage. Democratization in Malawi M. Phiri, 2020-11-17 The vote in favour of multi-party politics at the National Referendum of 1993 and the subsequent General Election of 1994 heralded the advent of a democratic system of government in Malawi. It soon became apparent, however, that there remained many obstacles to overcome before Malawi would be a truly democratic country. In this volume, a multi-disciplinary approach has been employed to examine both the progress and the pitfalls of the democratization process. Political scientists, lawyers, historians, theologians, literary critics, linguists, economists, and educationalists apply the tools of their respective disciplines to take stock of democratization in Malawi. This book is an indispensable guide to anyone seeking to understand the social and political situation in Malawi in the early years of the Second Republic. The Routledge International Handbook of Perpetrator Studies Susanne C. Knittel, Zachary J. Goldberg, 2019-10-30 The Routledge International Handbook of Perpetrator Studies traces the growth of an important interdisciplinary field, its foundations, key debates, and core concerns, as well as highlighting current and emerging issues and approaches and pointing to new directions for enquiry. With a focus on the perpetrators of mass killings, political violence, and genocide the handbook is concerned with a range of issues relating to the figure of the perpetrator from questions of definition typology and conceptual analysis to the study of motivations and group dynamics to questions of guilt and responsibility as well as representation and memory politics Offering an overview of the field its essential concepts and approaches this foundational volume presents contemporary perspectives on longstanding debates and recent contributions to the field that significantly expand the theoretical temporal political and geographical discussion of perpetrators and their representation through literature film and art It points to emerging areas and future trends in the field thus providing scholars with ideas or encouragement for future research activity As such It will appeal to scholars across a range of disciplines including sociology anthropology criminology philosophy memory studies psychology political science literary studies film studies law cultural studies and visual art
