School Desegregation Research Jeffrey Prager, Douglas Longshore, Melvin Seeman, 2012-12-06 The desegregation situation is the keynote theme of the following chapters I Each of them touches on a different dimension of the situation the historical the temporal the spatial But the reader perusing the essays with the situation in mind should remember that the desegregation situation should not be interpreted literally Authorities and adults certainly school age children probably are influenced by their awareness of a sequence of past and future situations Some may even operate with William James's 1890 p 608 notion of the specious present that has melted in our grasp fled ere we could touch it gone in the instant of becoming thus reducing the potency of the present situation Others may be dancing to a slower tempo of change thus becoming more responsive to the present situation Whatever the perceived tempo many must share the view that the future may reverse the direction of the past Some may see that new future direction as unswerving unending or long lasting others may see it as short lived And it is through attention to the phenomenological description of desegregation that these issues can be explored a theme that is considered in several of the following chapters

Trueba, 1998-04-02 The relationship between ethnic identity and power has important consequences in a modern world that is changing rapidly through global immigration trends Studies of ethnic racial conflict of ethnic identity and power become necessarily studies of political power social status school achievement and allocation of resources The recognition of power by an ethnic group however creates a competition for control and a rivalry for power over public arenas such as schools In this context this book provides interesting and important insights into the dilemmas faced by immigrants and members of ethnic groups by school personnel and by policy makers The first part of the book consists of comparative studies of ethnic identity The second part focuses directly on some of the lessons learned from social science research on ethnic identification and the critical study of equity with its implications for pedagogy An interdisciplinary group of scholars offers profoundly honest and stimulating accounts of their struggles to decipher self identification processes in various political contexts as well as their personal reflections on the study of ethnicity A powerful message emerges that invites reflection about self identification processes and that allows a deeper understanding of the empowering consequences of a clear and strong personal cultural ethnic and social identity These pages offer a keen grasp of the undeniable political contexts of education
