Peaks of Faith Ju-K'ang T'ien,2016-05-18 This is a pioneering study of the impact of Christianization among the Chinese Focusing primarily on the minority peoples of Yunnan province it nonetheless fully mirrors the historical development of the Protestant mission in China Drawing on many years of observation in the field and upon a comprehensive consultation of official documents relating to Christians on the mountain peaks the study chronicles how the early foreign missionaries thanks to their self sacrifice and the examples they set of religious zeal cemented the hitherto segregatory and leaderless tribes together vigorously shaking the desolate mountain folk out of their age long isolation It was the trend of the time to identify Christianity as the desirable agent to promote socio economic change in the undeveloped communities This is a timely original contribution to the historical study of the Christian missionary enterprise and the pressing problem of freedom of worship that currently exists in China Whatever Happens Robert J.

Songs of the Lisu Hills Aminta Arrington,2020-01-07 The story of how the Lisu of southwest China were evangelized one hundred years ago by the China Inland Mission is a familiar one in mission circles The subsequent history of the Lisu church however is much less well known Songs of the Lisu Hills brings this history up to date recounting the unlikely story of how the Lisu maintained their faith through twenty two years of government persecution and illuminating how Lisu Christians transformed the text based religion brought by the missionaries into a faith centered around an embodied set of Christian practices Based on ethnographic fieldwork as well as archival research this volume documents the development of Lisu Christianity both through larger social forces and through the stories of individual believers It explores how the Lisu most of whom remain subsistence farmers have oriented their faith less around cognitive notions of belief and more around participation in a rhythm of shared Christian practices such as line dancing attending church and festivals evangelizing working in one another s fields and singing translated Western hymns These embodied practices demonstrate how Christianity developed in the mountainous margins of the world s largest atheist state A much needed expansion of the Lisu story into a complex study of the evolution of a world Christian community this book will appeal to scholars working at the intersections of World Christianity anthropology of religion ethnography Chinese Christianity and mission studies
