New Transportation Fuels:

New Transportation Fuels Daniel Sperling, 1990 A comprehensive look at the various factors determining what fuels could and should replace petroleum Among the most promising transportation energy options addressed alcohols natural gas hydrogen electricity and petroleum like synthetic fuels Discusses policy strategies for implementing these options Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Pathways for a transition to a sustainable hydrogen transportation fuel infrastructure in California Marlene Hilkert, 2004-02-20 Inhaltsangabe Abstract As society enters the 21st century there is a growing awareness of the burdens being placed on the planet as its ability to keep up with the demands of modern society are strained One of the major contributors to this burden happens to be a main resource required for sustained development Energy has always been and will always be a necessary resource for existence Since the industrial revolution fossil fuels such as coal and oil have been the main stay fuel to accommodate society s appetite As the demand for this resource increases the climatic and socio economic costs of this fuel become more acute and it is well documented that the supply of this fuel is not endless One of the major consumers of this fuel as a society is the transportation sector The processes in place which take it from the ground to its combustion as a fuel are some of the main culprits which adversely affect the planet This thesis explores the issues associated with the introduction of another energy resource Hydrogen as a replacement fuel for the transportation industry It is argued that for the transportation sector Hydrogen offers the most promising alternative as a fuel Making Hydrogen readily available and affordable through the retail infrastructure is of paramount importance if its widespread use is to be achieved The logistics of this are explored and it is believed that the introduction of small Hydrogen fuelers at existing retail outlets is the preferred method to instantiate the transition in the short to medium term Those fueling stations can utilize grid electricity to produce Hydrogen by the means of water electrolysis or take advantage of the existing Natural Gas distribution infrastructure to produce Hydrogen via steam reformation This thesis examines the Well to Wheels impacts and economic feasibility of those options and compares them to existing vehicle and fuel technologies The state of California was chosen as a target market due to its high automobile density the resulting pollution issues and its clear mandate on promoting alternative energy sources Inhaltsverzeichnis Table of Contents I Introduction2 1 Summary of the work2 2 Environmental economic and political challenges associated with the use of fossil fuels especially oil3 2 1 Environmental and Social Problems with Fossil Fuels3 2 1 1 Environmental pollution Oil spills and discharges3 2 1 2 Environmental pollution Local Review of the Research Strategy for Biomass-Derived Transportation Fuels National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Commission on Engineering and Technical Systems, Committee to Review the R&D Strategy for Biomass-Derived Ethanol and Biodiesel Transportation Fuels, 1999-12-11 The Office of Fuels Development OFD a component of the U S Department of Energy s DOE Office of Transportation Technologies manages the federal government s effort to make biomass based ethanol bioethanol and biodiesel a practical and affordable alternative to gasoline Through the National Biomass Ethanol Program the OFD is overseeing key research and development R D and industry government partnerships for the establishment of a cellulosic biomass ethanol industry Cellulosic biomass resources being investigated include agronomic and forest crop residues woody crops perennial grasses and municipal wastes Starch based sources such as cereal grains e g corn grain are not included in this program The objective of the program is to promote the commercialization of enzyme based technologies to produce cost competitive bioethanol for use as transportation fuel The OFD requested that the National Research Council estimate the contribution and evaluate the role of biofuels biomass derived ethanol and biodiesel as transportation fuels in the domestic and international economies evaluate OFD s biofuels strategy and recommend changes in this strategy and the R D goals and portfolio of the OFD in the near term to midterm time frame about 20 years During this period a number of complex interacting factors including advances in the technologies used to produce biofuels at a competitive cost the elimination of tax incentives advances in vehicle and engine technologies growing concerns about solid waste disposal and air pollution and global measures to reduce emissions of greenhouse gases to the atmosphere will affect the position of biofuels in transportation fuel markets

Liquid Transportation Fuels from Coal and Biomass National Research Council, National Academy of Engineering, National Academy of Sciences, America's Energy Future Panel on Alternative Liquid Transportation Fuels, 2010-01-24 The transportation sector cannot continue on its current path The volatility of oil prices threatens the U S economy the large proportion of oil importation threatens U S energy security and the massive contribution of greenhouse gases threatens the environment The development of domestic sources of alternative transportation fuels with lower greenhouse emissions is now a national imperative Coal and biomass are in abundant supply in the United States and can be converted to liquid fuels that can be combusted in existing and future vehicles Their abundant supply makes them attractive candidates to provide non oil based liquid fuels to the U S transportation system However there are important questions about the economic viability carbon impact and technology status of these options Liquid Transportation Fuels from Coal and Biomass provides a snapshot of the potential costs of liquid fuels from biomass by biochemical conversion and from biomass and coal by thermochemical conversion Policy makers investors leaders in industry the transportation sector and others with a concern for the environment economy and energy security will look to this book as a roadmap to independence from foreign oil With immediate action and sustained effort alternative liquid fuels can be available in the 2020 time frame if or when the nation needs them
