Organising Labour In Globalising Asia:

Organising Labour in Globalising Asia Andrew Brown, Jane Hutchison, 2003-09-02 This book offers wide ranging insights into the organising capacities of workers in Asia today Nine case studies examine workers responses to class relations through independent unions non government organisations NGOs and more dis organised struggles Countering the notion that globalisation holds entirely negative consequences for labour organisation the authors reveal some of the openings for local activism which can arise from transnational production arrangements The volume covers the second tier industrializers China Thailand Malaysia the Philippines Indonesia India and Bangladesh Interdisciplinary in nature it will be of great interest to students and scholars of Asian studies development studies and international labour studies Women and Labour Organizing in Asia Kaye Broadbent, Michele Ford, 2007-12-21 This book investigates the role of women and labour activism in Asia demonstrating that women have been active in union and non union based campaigns throughout the region Although focusing primarily on women the contributions to this book address issues that affect all workers Chapters on China India Japan Korea Indonesia Malaysia Sri La The New Political Economy of Southeast Asia Rajah Rasiah, Johannes Dragsbaek Schmidt, 2010-01-01 This well researched book examines the dramatic transformation of Southeast Asian countries from agricultural and mining economies to industrial nations In doing so it explores the effects of development policy on a number of interdisciplinary issues and the emergence of new social and political pressures created by industrialization These include their heightened vulnerability to complex economic crises their use of sophisticated instruments in the labour process and increased awareness of environmental issues The distinguished authors present a regional and cross border focus on transnational actors and institutions and the policy issues and problems which have a wider impact on spatial configurations in the region This insightful study will appeal to researchers academics and policymakers working on the economics and development of Southeast Asia Women Workers in Industrialising Asia A. Kaur, 2016-01-13 This collection contributes to key theoretical debates about women workers in Asia and breaks new ground by focussing on issues that have been little documented in other studies in the area It provides new information and insights into labour systems associated with labour intensive export manufactures and state labour relations in a comparative context The contributors present a range of unique and varied perspectives from which they consider aspects of the increasing integration of Asian economies exploring implications for their labour markets Reassessing the Employment Relationship Edmund Heery, Peter Turnbull, 2010-11-10 Reassessing the Employment Relationship is an edited volume written by leading academics at Cardiff Business School Reflecting on the employment relationship as one of the central institutions of advanced capitalist economies it provides an extensive survey of the changing world of work The book offers a multi disciplinary analysis of the contemporary workplace and focuses on the key influences that are shaping the employment relationship globalization financialization regulation and the search for ethical standards in human resource management

There is insightful and authoritative treatment of some of the main developments in the employment relationship such as the rise of knowledge and customer service work increasing income inequality new forms of management control over work the spread of non union industrial relations and the rise to prominence of work life integration Reassessing the Employment Relationship provides a critical yet accessible look at the changing employment relationship and is an indispensable aid to students studying Industrial Relations Human Resource Management Organizational Studies and Business Ethics PAUL BLYTON is Professor of Industrial Relations and Industrial Sociology at Cardiff University UK EDMUND HEERY is Professor of Employment Relations at Cardiff University UK PETER TURNBULL is Professor of Human Resource Management and Labour Relations at Cardiff University UK The Management of Human Resources in the Asia Pacific Region Chris Rowley, John Benson, 2004 Explosive economic and social changes in the Asia Pacific region have meant that much of what we know about the area is outdated This book addresses this and looks at the human resource period with detailed analysis discussion and predictions for the future Focusing on the areas of China Hong Kong Japan Korea the Philippines Singapore Taiwan and Thailand the book explores the reasons behind changes and whether they indicate movement of convergence or divergence the key issues for management and the implications for theory development This is the latest research available on this subject A must for managers researchers and those teaching undergraduate or postgraduate courses as well as those interested in international business sociology and employee relations

Labor, Class Formation, and China's Informationized Policy of Economic Development Yu Hong, 2011-03-31 In Labor Class Formation and China's Informationized Policy of Economic Development Yu Hong examines crucial connections between the evolving political economy of information and communications technology ICT and the reconstitution of class relations in China Situating China's ICT development over the last thirty years at the intersection of transnational trends domestic policies and institutional arrangements Hong shows how evolving class relations in the ICT sector are shaped by and shaping the transnational capitalist dynamics and domestic socio economic transformations She goes on to argue that the huge and still expanding pool of Chinese ICT workers and their newly attained identities as wage labor rather than consumers constitute a missing but important dimension of human experiences of the rise of the information society

Migrant Citizenship from Below K. Shinozaki, 2015-05-06 Migrant Citizenship from Below explores the dynamic local and transnational lives of Filipina and Filipino migrant domestic workers living in Sch nberg Germany Shinozaki examines their irregular migrant citizenship status from above which is produced by complex interactions between Germany's welfare care and migration regimes and the Philippines gendered politics of overseas employment Despite the predominant representation of these workers as invisible these spatially immobile migrants maintain sustained transnational engagements through parenting and religious practices Shinozaki studies the reverse gendered process of international reproductive labor migration in which women traveled first and were later joined by men Despite their structural vulnerability participant observations and biographical interviews with the migrants demonstrate that they enact and negotiate migrant citizenship in the workplace transnational households religious practices and through accessing health provisions

Made in Bangladesh, Cambodia, and Sri Lanka: The Labor Behind the Global Garments and Textiles Industries Sanchita Banerjee Saxena, 2014-06-26 The general perception of the garment and textile industry in the global South is fueled only by images of dismal labor conditions and unsuitable factories descriptions of labor clashes with police and analyses of low wages and exploitative multinational corporations This book presents an insightful perspective on the garment and textiles industries in Asia by highlighting that an industry fraught with competing concerns can in fact collaborate and work together when it is in the interest of both the state and interest groups to do so This comparative study recognizes the role of both the state and interest groups in the policy making process and argues that they are interlinked and require one another for sustainable reforms Employing original in depth research in three different countries the study skillfully delves down deep beyond the macro statistics and commonly held images to cast light on some of the significant policy and attitudinal shifts that have occurred in this industry It demonstrates that even though the struggle continues it is important to recognize the improvements thus far and to work towards positive change This book also takes a much larger historical view of the sector arguing that manipulation of the trading regime has created and continues to create both incentives and disincentives for the various stakeholders involved in this industry This book is essential for students and researchers in policy studies labor studies South and Southeast Asian studies international trade and political science as well as those engaged in program design and evaluation of projects focused on labor rights This study is also critical for non governmental organizations with a thematic focus on the garments and textiles industry labor rights human rights and international trade policy as well as for private sector organizations focused on improving labor conditions around the world More information at <http://www.cambriapress.com/books/9781604978780.cfm>

Employment Relations in the Asia-Pacific Region Peter Holland, Julian

Teicher, Richard Gough, 2013-09-13 This book focuses on new developments in employment in Asia The context for this discussion is provided by the processes of globalisation and the associated debate on labour standards Individual chapters focus on issues such as the role of NGOs as surrogate unions employment regulation in export processing zones social protection and the impact of political reform on the employment relationship This volume was previously published as a special issue of the journal Asia Pacific Business Review

Labor Markets and Economic Development Ravi Kanbur, Jan Svejnar, 2009-05-07 As developing and transition economies enter the next phase of reforms labor market issues increasingly come to the fore With the increased competition from globalization the discussion is shifting to the need for greater labor market flexibility and the creation of good jobs Moreover the greater actual and perceived insecurity in labor markets has generated a new agenda on how to structure safety nets and labor market regulation The older questions of the links between the formal and informal labor market reappear with new dimensions and significance More generally it is clear that an accurate understanding of how labor market structures function is essential if we are to analyze alternative policy proposals in the wake of these concerns Oddly enough in spite of this great importance there are no recent monographs that bring together rigorous studies produced by academic researchers on these various issues This book fills that gap Under the steely editorship of Ravi Kanbur and Jan Svejnar the contributors flourish in their attempts to enliven these debates

City, Environment, and Transnationalism in the Philippines Koki Seki, 2022-06-24 Seki presents an ethnography of uncertainty and precarity experienced by people in urban rural and transnational communities in the Philippines as a case study of social protection without the possibility of a robust welfare state He deals with topics including urban poverty environmental degradation and transnational migration Throughout these chapters Seki elaborates on the modes of security and protection that people living at the margins of global capitalism create through mobilizing their sociality and networks He traces the emerging configuration of the social a collectivity and connectedness that ensures a sense of security in life among people The social can be defined as an idea or institution which had enabled formal and impersonal solidarity such as that which provided the underpinnings of the modern welfare states of the West during the mid 20th century In the twenty first century the social in this context is experiencing a fundamental reconfiguration as it faces deepening insecurity risk and the precariousness of the post Welfare State or post Fordist regime What are the contours of the social emerging in an unlikely place of the Philippines amid contemporary insecurity and precariousness A vital resource for scholars of the Philippines and of anthropology and social policy in the Global South more widely

Research Handbook on the Future of Work and Employment Relations Keith Townsend, Adrian Wilkinson, 2011-01-01 This is an enlightening text on the subject of employment and work relations that will be useful for students in economics specifically those studying labor relations Lucy Heckman American Reference Books Annual 2012 The broad field of employment relations is diverse and complex and is under constant development and reinvention This Research Handbook discusses fundamental theories and approaches to work and employment relations and their connection to broader political and societal changes occurring throughout the world. It provides comprehensive coverage of work and employment relations theory and practice. This up-to-date research compendium has drawn together a range of international authors from diverse disciplinary backgrounds. There are chapters from labour historians, theoreticians, more mainstream industrial relations scholars, sociologists, organizational psychologists, geographers, policy advisors, economists and lawyers. At the heart of each chapter is the notion that the world of work and employment relations has changed substantially since the halcyon days of IR throughout the Dunlop Era of the 1950s. However, many areas of enquiry remain and more questions have developed with society and technology. This Handbook reflects this view. As the field of study and practice continues to evolve throughout the twenty-first century, what lessons have we learnt from the past and what can we expect in the future? Academics and postgraduate students researching industrial relations, human resource management, employment relations, industrial sociology and sociology of work will find this important resource invaluable.
