Reflections Edl Go Series:

Reflections on the Extreme Right in Western Europe, 1990–2008 Christopher Husbands, 2020-05-26 During the last three decades or so there has been a significant growth of extreme right voter support in Europe and elsewhere in the world The chapters in this book look at an earlier period before most of this increase Comprising eight previously published articles or book chapters and two hitherto unpublished studies this book gives extended accounts of the major extreme right political parties or movements in a number of west European countries looking both at their antecedents and also at their support and significance in the 1980s and early 1990s The countries covered in detail are France the Federal Republic of Germany old and new regions the Netherlands Belgium Switzerland and Austria During the last three decades some earlier parties of the extreme right in these west European countries have disappeared into oblivion to be superseded by replacements others have survived and flourished Given the date when most of these chapters were written they are now to be regarded as contributions to a modern history about the status and relevance of the respective parties or movements The book also includes an introductory essay that discusses issues arising from the disputed labelling terminology used to describe such parties and identifies themes that feature in the more recent literature about the subsequent and current state of the extreme right in Europe The book will be of particular interest to researchers on the contemporary politics of the extreme right in Europe as well as being a valuable resource for those teaching courses on this topic or on general political sociology

Keyboard Warriors Graham Edward Geddes,2016-08-17 The far right English Defence League EDL is a strange product of global and local dynamics most prominently the War on Terror While the EDL has become well known for its high profile Islamophobic demonstrations within local communities the bulk of its day to day activity occurs online within its social networking sites between supporters referred to as keyboard warriors Keyboard warriors activities are confined to the virtual realm and they are unlikely to attend EDL events in physical space such as demonstrations This book explores the kind of Islamophobic identity that is produced by EDL supporters within the networking sites and focuses on how this identity is constructed around insecurities that are central to the lives of this population EDL supporters can be identified as members of the working class that have experienced significant ontological insecurity since the 1980s as a consequence of globalisation and related deindustrialisation Working class identity has been weakened in contrast to the post war era when stronger roles could be located for such groups Adrift in a post industrial landscape located in an ethno religious war attached to feelings of class and national pride and now mediated by new social networking systems the insecurities of these sections of the white working class have become attached to a construct of Islamic identity that is defined as essentially immoral and dangerous This attribution of otherness however is not restricted merely to Muslims but is applied to any perceived anti EDL agent including the government and the police which are aggregated into a hegemonic foe that persecutes the English nation and facilitates Islamic expansionism The central theme of the book is that new media systems have become critical to an understanding of extreme political identities and the expansion of worldviews in which inter group conflict is amplified while also offering a sense of meaning and self esteem for those involved
