Reflexive Communication in the Culturally Diverse Workplace John Kikoski, Catherine Kikoski, 1999-04-30 Shows how to use a new approach to face to face communications in culturally diverse workplaces and an equally new approach to diversity

Reflexive Communication in the Culturally Diverse Workplace John Kikoski, Catherine Kikoski, 1996-07-22 America's rapid and drastically changing demographics pose new challenges to society and particularly to the workplace Taking as their theme that The only antidote to stereotyping and discrimination is to know each other as individuals the authors look carefully at the direction in which America is heading demographically and where it will be in the 21st century They discuss what the workplace will be like and how it will be affected by the characteristics of the people who will comprise it The essence of the problem say the authors is communication the face to face interaction between people of different ethnicities races and genders They may be speaking to each other but are not being heard Exploring the relationship between culture communication and management this new research in management introduces and applies the theory of Reflexive Communication and the microskills necessary for using it in day to day work situations The authors lay out the patterns of culture specific values and behaviors of the major demographic groups in the workplace white males women African Americans Hispanics and Asian Americans In each of these chapters the authors apply their theory and show step by step how individuals within each group can be accessed and trained by the precepts of Reflexive Communication The book concludes with a thoughtful examination of the future of diversity and diversity training in America and reasserts the need for people of differing cultures to find ways to work together not only for their own personal benefit but for the benefit of their workplaces and organizations The authors lay out the patterns of culture specific values and behaviors of the major demographic groups in the workplace white males women African Americans Hispanics and Asian Americans In each of these chapters the authors apply their theory and show step by step how individuals within each group can be accessed and trained according to the precepts of Reflexive Communication The book concludes with a thoughtful examination of the future of diversity training in America and reasserts the need for people of differing cultures to find ways to work together not only for their own personal benefit but for the benefit of their workplaces and organizations The Inquiring Organization

Catherine Kikoski, John Kikoski, 2004-07-30 This book provides the context and tools to create knowledge via a proven process of inquiry questions and conversation It introduces the theoretical background to explain why as well as the practical hands on skills and processes to demonstrate how to surface tacit knowledge that which we know but which we have not yet made explicit in conversation e g background education and experience and create new knowledge in collaboration with colleagues In the information economy knowledge is an asset and a currency The creation of new knowledge therefore enhances an organization's position in the marketplace How do we create new knowledge We don't do it by learning what is already known The learning organization is already pass Instead we do it by inquiring which is a method of bringing tacit knowledge to the forefront of awareness The inquiring organization surfaces tacit knowledge which is what its employees bring to the table their background education experience character and judgment and transforms that knowledge into new explicit knowledge that can be transferred from one employee to another through conversation That is true knowledge creation and this book provides the tools skills techniques and processes for executives and professionals in any field to accomplish this task in today's fluid environment A Handbook of Corporate Communication and Public Relations Sandra

Factors to Consider in Blending Active and Reserve Manpower Within Military Units Harry Thie, 2007 A 2002 Department of Defense DoD report stated that the military services developed or adopted many innovative approaches to unit structures and organization as force size changed and operational tempo increased The report suggested that organizational concepts leading to a more flexible capable force must be implemented more broadly to better capitalize on the capabilities and strengths of the reserve components In particular such organizational concepts include blending active component AC and reserve component RC workforces in military units We define blending as any arrangement or event that brings active and reserve manpower together within organizations for a common purpose At the organizational level where mission work is actually done there is interest in workforce integration between the components      Leadership and the Force of Love John R. Hoyle, 2001-11-06 Through vivid real world examples and an engaging approach to effective leadership visionary author John Hoyle masterfully illustrates the key to success in any industry whether the setting is the classroom or the boardroom Leadership and the Force of Love is a profound yet straightforward exploration of how leaders can inspire others to greatness through these six key actions Visioning Communicating Teamworking Empowering Mentoring Evaluating Though educators are frequently faced with the challenges of politics hostility selfishness and violence Hoyle demonstrates that overcoming these obstacles requires teamwork motivation empowerment and communication While many have written about moral leadership the notion of leading with love has been largely ignored Hoyle discusses the implications for love in leadership and affirms once and for all that if you can t love you can t lead      Gender, Race, and Ethnicity in the Workplace Margaret Foegen Karsten, 2006-07-30 Despite tremendous strides that have led to increasing numbers of women and minorities entering the workplace and achieving positions of power and influence there is still much ground to be gained. Blending theory and practice, statistics and analysis, this three-volume set presents the latest research from the fields of management, sociology, psychology, law, and public policy to shed new light on the dynamics of gender and race/ethnicity in the workplace. The first volume details the corporate paths of women and minorities to date, highlighting continuing challenges and gaps. Volumes 2 and 3 tackle such complex issues as corporate socialization and how it excludes women and minorities, the impact of affirmative action decisions on practice and policy, the fine line between office romance and sexual harassment, and work-life balance. These volumes also showcase innovative practices in promoting diversity and leadership development. Featuring contributions from such influential authors as Nancy Adler, Gail Evans, and Gary Powell, this set presents a unique collection of perspectives on the dynamics of race/ethnicity and gender in the workplace and considers how they both reflect and reinforce the culture at large. Since women were first admitted to the Harvard Radcliffe business program in 1959, they have made remarkable progress in assuming leadership and management positions traditionally held by white men; more recently, African, Asian, Hispanic, and Native American women and men have joined the professional realm in increasing numbers with profound implications for organizations. Nevertheless, the statistics still tell a discouraging story: women make up nearly 50 percent of the workforce but only 16 percent of the corporate officer pool in America's 500 largest companies; for every dollar a white man earns, a black man earns 76 cents; in a recent survey, 70 percent of women cited lack of an influential mentor as a key obstacle to attaining business success. The leading business experts assembled here consider what is behind these statistics and what can be done to change the culture that creates them. Blending theory and practice, statistics and analysis, this three-volume set presents the latest research from the fields of management, sociology, psychology, law, and public policy to shed new light on the dynamics of gender and race/ethnicity in the workplace. The first volume details the corporate paths of women and minorities to date, highlighting continuing challenges and gaps. Volumes 2 and 3 tackle such complex issues as socialization and how it excludes women and minorities, the impact of affirmative action decisions on practice and policy, the fine line between office romance and sexual harassment, the depth of racial and gender stereotypes, work-life balance, and unwritten codes of power and influence. These volumes also showcase innovative practices in promoting diversity and leadership development. Featuring contributions from such influential authors as Nancy Adler, Gail Evans, and Gary Powell, this set presents a unique collection of perspectives on the dynamics of race/ethnicity and gender in the workplace and considers how they both reflect and reinforce the culture at large. Latino Talent Robert periphery to the centre of international management research. However, this field is rapidly changing and new thematic approaches have begun to emerge. By addressing this, the book offers genuine and more nuanced insights into existing themes and comes with applications of emergent conceptual developments in different settings. The second part of the book covers methodologies and gives examples and cutting edge insights into the role of translation in the execution of empirical research and theorising arising from it. Finally, the book draws together innovative ways of how to address the challenges of a multilingual teaching classroom and how to innovate in order to incorporate such diversity through pedagogic practice. This book provides a source that unites insights from multilingual empirical research, methodological considerations and pedagogic practice in order to advance knowledge and debate. It will be a handy source of information that offers direct access to the latest guidance on language sensitive management challenges. It will therefore appeal to an internationally minded and mobile audience including scholars, students and decision makers.
