Managing Risk in Reinsurance Niels Viggo Haueter, Geoffrey Jones, 2017. Reinsurance was a global business from the start the method of spreading and balancing risks in international markets. Track Tales Mercedes Webb-Pullman, 2017-07-08. Reading Track Tales is like key holing a personal diary that gives the human drum on the racing industry in Australia during the early 1980s. The poems perversely honour the men women horses and dogs that were the industry at the time the poems jostle at the starting gate. Suddenly they re off and running. A totally absorbing read. Contemporary Migrant Families Paula Pustulka, Magdalena Ślusarczyk, Justyna Struzik, 2018-10-12

Despite extensive and continuous academic interest in migrant and transnational families, a stereotypical view that those leading mobile lives are somehow beyond the contours of normativity is still prevalent. Such a perspective concerns both kinship and family practices of familyhood across borders and the bi or multicultural settings of providing or offering care. Consequently, we primarily hear about migration leading to broken relationships, the dissolution of families and bonds, substandard provisions of care, abandonment, exploitation of employees and so on. In this climate of public imagination of migrants either being dangerous or concurrently stealing one's job and scrounging off the welfare state, it is no small feat to be a migration scholar. Trying to overcome the universalising views that essentialise human experience requires a wholly different point of departure, one which is represented in this volume. This is because a now well established transnational paradigm allows for a more nuanced analysis originating with the premise that not only normalises mobility but also proves that various ties and relationships can be continued in the long term despite spatial distance. On the whole, the transnational lens provided here showcases how new family practices are devised and deployed in mobile family lives, thus allowing the argument that migration enriches certain dimensions of contemporary family life and caregiving. This book plays on the dichotomy of migration as the new normal and mobility as a continuous source of challenges. The core issues examined here concern such problems as maintaining kinship ties across borders, new patterns of mothering and fathering, children's sense of belonging and identifications, and social capital and engagement in community life. It reveals that doing family in the migration context often eludes simple definitions of national space or typical family. Instead, it offers a transnational understanding of how a person practically and pragmatically arranges one's family and kinship, strategically choosing pathways of care, child rearing, relationships at home, maintaining traditions and so forth.
