My Mothers People To Colorado They Came:

Mochi's War Chris Enss, Howard Kazanjian, 2015-06-15 Colorado Territory in 1864 wasn't merely the wild west it was a land in limbo while the Civil War raged in the east and politics swirled around its potential admission to the union. The territorial governor John Evans had ambitions on the national stage should statehood occur and he was joined in those ambitions by a local pastor and erstwhile Colonel in the Colorado militia John Chivington. The decision was made to take a hard line stance against any Native Americans who refused to settle on reservations and in the fall of 1864 Chivington set his sights on a small band of Cheyenne under the chief Black Eagle camped and preparing for the winter at Sand Creek. When the order to fire on the camp came on November 28 one officer refused other soldiers in Chivington's force however immediately attacked the village disregarding the American flag and a white flag of surrender that was run up shortly after the soldiers commenced firing. In the ensuing battle fifteen members of the assembled militias were killed and more than 50 wounded. Between 150 and 200 of Black Kettle's Cheyenne were estimated killed nearly all elderly men, women, and children. As with many incidents in American history the victors wrote the first version of history turning the massacre into a heroic feat by the troops. Soon thereafter however Congress began an investigation into Chivington's actions and he was roundly condemned. His name still rings with infamy in Colorado and American history. Mochi's War explores this story and its repercussions into the last part of the nineteenth century from the perspective of a Cheyenne woman whose determination swept her into some of the most dramatic and heartbreaking moments in the conflicts that grew through the West in the aftermath of Sand Creek.

Imperialism and Expansionism in American History Chris J. Magoc, David Bernstein, 2015-12-14 This four volume encyclopedia chronicles the historical roots of the United States' current military dominance, documenting its growth from continental expansionism to hemispheric hegemony to global empire. This groundbreaking four volume encyclopedia offers sweeping coverage of a subject central to American history and of urgent importance today as the nation wrestles with a global imperial posture and the long term viability of the largest military establishment in human history. The work features more than 650 entries encompassing the full scope of American expansionism and imperialism from the colonial era through the 21st century. War on Terror, Readers will learn about U.S. Native American conflicts, 19th century land laws, early forays overseas for example the opening of Japan and America's imperial conflicts in Cuba and the Philippines. U.S. interests in Latin America are explored as are the often forgotten ambitions that lay behind the nation's involvement in the World Wars. The work also offers extensive coverage of the Cold War and today's ongoing conflicts in Iraq, Afghanistan, Africa, and the Middle East as they relate to U.S. national interests. Notable individuals including American statesmen, military commanders, influential public figures, and anti-imperialists are covered as well. The inclusion of cultural elements of American expansionism and imperialism for example Hollywood films and protest music helps distinguish this set from other more limited works.

In Timber Country Beverly A. Brown, 1995 Southwest Oregon embodies the fast changing social and environmental trends of the Pacific Northwest. This book analyzes the subsequent transformation of the region. Working class men and women describe a segregation of private forest lands and waterways where people could once move freely; they are boxed in by fences and No Trespassing signs.

My Mother's Journal Adonica Schultz Aune, 2013-01-25 The initial idea for this work was to provide a space for a reader to record daily events in accordance to the date as recorded by my mother. What transpired is an abridged account of my mother's last year of her life living at Luther Memorial Home in Mayville, North Dakota, with added remarks and snippets of my life now in The Villages, Florida. Written in my mother's aging hand with extreme intellect and charm, the journal is a historical account of the daily life in a nursing facility. My Mother's Journal portrays small matters that when pieced together and seen from a distance become large. Subsequently, her words are a rare gift and it is my hope that this will foster more such journaling. I would like to thank my early readers: Aunt Dorothy, my sister Karen, my friend Trish and my step daughter in law Dixie for their encouragement and support in completing this bittersweet and challenging project.
