Person Of The Therapist:

The Person of the Therapist Training Model Harry J. Aponte, Karni Kissil, 2016-01-08 The Person of the Therapist Training Model presents a model that prepares therapists to make active and purposeful use of who they are personally and professionally in all aspects of the therapeutic process relationship assessment and intervention The authors take a process that seems vague and elusive the self of the therapist work and provide a step by step description of how to conceptualize structure and implement a training program designed to facilitate the creation of effective therapists who are skilled at using their whole selves in their encounters with clients This book looks to make conscious and planned use of a therapist's race gender culture values life experience and in particular personal vulnerabilities and struggles in how he or she relates and works with clients This evidence supported resource is ideal for clinicians supervisors and training programs

The Person of the Therapist Edward W.L. Smith, 2010-06-28 The techniques of psychotherapy are often given undue emphasis slighting the importance of the psychotherapist Research suggests that the same techniques are differently effective when used by equally trained and supervised therapists Not only are some therapists more effective irrespective of the type of therapy they practice but some because of their personal qualities may actually harm those with whom they work This research reflects the vast importance of the personality of the therapist evoking the question of how a therapist may develop personhood Aimed at training as well as practicing psychotherapists social workers counselors psychologists and psychiatrists this scholarly exploration of personhood includes various models for classifying the types of psychotherapy and the place of personhood in this context as well as a review of existing theory and research literature on specific personal therapist variables as they relate to therapy outcome The role of traditional spirituality in the development of personhood is given particular emphasis

Perceived Impact of Person-of-the-Therapist Training (POTT) Model on Drexel University Master of Family Therapy Postgraduates' Clinical Work Florina Lauriana Apolinar Claudio, 2016 The person of the therapist training POTT model developed by renowned family therapist Harry Aponte and implemented in the Drexel University Master of Family Therapy curriculum was the training model of focus for the study Postgraduates of the Drexel University Master of Family Therapy Program were interviewed using grounded theory methods on the perceived impact of person of the therapist training on clinical effectiveness The generated theory revealed that postgraduates developed a purposeful therapeutic presence participants believed that their presence way of being and the way that they provided therapy way of doing had transformed The stance they had was self accepting self aware compassionate empathic and grounded Therefore the therapy they provided was decisive thoughtful compassionate self aware and connected to self Although attention to the person or self of the therapist was present in the couple and family therapy literature research on the effectiveness of person of the therapist training is virtually nonexistent Thus the present study addressed this gap in the literature particularly because the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy the field's primary professional organization includes person of the therapist elements in established competency standards Moreover the marriage and family therapy profession is growing highlighting the importance of effective training to ensure competent clinical services

Johnson,Leslie S. Greenberg,2013-08-21 First published in 1995 Intimate relationships are at the core of our emotional life There is no other context so infused by and responsive to the ebb and flow of human emotion A large part of human communication is emotional communication involving minute signals concerning closeness and distance and dominance and submission This information is of central importance in organizing interactions with significant others In addition the social interactions most crucial to our senses of well being positive adaptation and physical and emotional health are those that occur with significant others on whom we depend for our sense of security and belonging in the world This book examines the role of affect in intimate relations and in the redefinition of such relationships in therapy Listening to the Melody of the Mind Rima Brauer,Gerald Faris,2008-10-17 Psychotherapy has been described humorously as the art of practicing a science which doesn't exist Brauer and Faris submit that the practice of psychodynamic psychotherapy draws on both art and science and should be conducted only by those who are properly trained with sufficient experience and steeped in the empirical literature based on solid research Insightful and well trained therapists should therefore draw heavily from the scientific disciplines of child development medical science biology neuroscience psychology and sociology To tap into the great body of research in such areas means the well read psychotherapist must be able to assimilate contributions from a rather broad array of specialties This is a daunting task and is not for the intellectually faint of heart Listening to the Melody of the Mind attempts to provide a comprehensive exploration of the person who is the therapist
