Murphy Jay Rumney, 1952      Psychiatry and the Social Adjustment of Probationers Leo Joseph Palmer, 1932      Social Legislation Marian O. Boner, 1970      Behavioral Approaches to Crime and Delinquency Edward K. Morris, Curtis J. Braukmann, 2012-12-06 The systematic application of behavioral psychology to crime and delinquency was begun only 20 years ago yet it has already contributed significantly to our practical knowledge about prevention and correction and to our general understanding of a pressing social problem In this handbook we review and evaluate what has been accomplished to date as well as what is currently at the leading edge of the field We do so in order to present a clear comprehensive and systematic view of the field and to promote and encourage still more effective action and social policy reform in the future The chapters in this text have been written by professionals who were among the original innovators in applying behavioral psychology to crime and delinquency and who continue to make critical contributions to the field's progress and by a new generation of energetic young professionals who are taking the field in important and innovative directions The contributors have attempted to review and evaluate their areas with critical dispassion to provide thorough but not overly specialized discussion of their material and to draw implications for how research application and social policy might be improved in the future For our part as editors we have tried to foster integration across the chapters and to provide background and conceptual material of our own      A Handbook of Social Work ... Minnesota State Conference and Institute of Social Work, 1929      Research Grants Index National Institutes of Health (U.S.). Division of Research Grants, 1966      Federal Probation , 1958      The Social Organization of Juvenile Justice Aaron Cicourel, 2017-07-28 The Social Organization of Juvenile Justice recasts familiar sociological problems of research within a dramatically new and different theoretical and methodological perspective In seeing law enforcement officers no less than those accused of criminal behavior as locked into the creation of history or more precisely a series of retrospective and prospective interpretations of events both within and disengaged from the social contexts relevant to what purportedly took place Aaron Cicourel redefined the fault lines of contemporary criminology The work makes imaginative use of a wide variety of new techniques of analysis from ethnomethodology to community studies while at no point ignoring basic hard statistical data in this study of juvenile justice in two California cities Cicourel states the purpose of his book with clarity The decision making activities that produce the social problem called delinquency and the socially organized procedures that provide for judicial outcomes are important because they highlight fundamental processes of how social order is possible This work challenges the conventional view that assumes delinquents are natural social types distributed in some ordered fashion and produced by a set of abstract internal or external pressures from the social structure Cicourel views the everyday organizational workings of the police probation departments courts and schools demonstrating how these agencies contribute to various kinds of transformations of the original events that led to law enforcement contact This contextual creation of facts in turn leads to improvised ad hoc interpretations of character structure family life and future prospects In this way the agencies may generate delinquency by their routine encounters with the young His new introduction discusses with great detail the methodology behind his research and responses to earlier critiques of his work     The Police Journal ,1928     Juvenile Delinquency Elizabeth Grace Trowbridge,1924     Treating the Criminal Offender Alexander B. Smith,Louis Berlin,2013-11-11 The second edition of Treating the Criminal Offender was written in an atmosphere of disillusionment and severe criticism of the traditionalist approach to treatment As crime rates soared the voices of the critics rose in volume and intensity And so this third edition revised toward the end of the decade of the 1980s embodies the shift in emphasis from rehabilitating the offender to protecting the community This shift in our opinion does not reject the goal of changing the offender so as to effect his reintegration into society it uses the strategy of intensive supervision and surveillance only to effect the desired goal The use of electronics to monitor the offender's whereabouts and the swift application of punitive measures following the awareness of any violation are extrinsic techniques of control It is our opinion that for the deep more lasting changes in behavior some form of casework counseling and or psychotherapeutic intervention is essential We are the cohorts who believe in the effectiveness of such treatment modalities when and if applied to the right target population at the appropriate time     Social problems and education Ernest Rutherford Groves,1925     Report ,1946     A Catalogue of the Law Collection at New York University Julius J.
