Probation Politics Policy And Practice:

Probation Tim May, 1991 Discusses the effects of changes in the criminal justice system and society in general upon the organization and everyday work of the probation service in England and Wales The book traces paradigm political and organizational changes Penal Policy and Political Culture in England and Wales Mike Ryan, 2003-01-01 I dislike heaping so much praise on a book as people often imagine another agenda purpose or friendship is at stake That makes writing a review of Penal Policy and Political Culture all the more difficult This really is an excellent book and it is very difficult to put down For those with an interest in the small politics of penal policy it will be of immense appeal Students enrolled on courses looking at pressure groups and their influence or lack thereof will not find a better text For those at the coal face governors managers officers and prisoners it will fascinate and enlighten And for reformers it is something of a manifesto Utterly Suberb Steve Taylor Prison Service Journal For many years making penal policy in England and Wales was in the hands of a small male metropolitan elite made up of Ministers liberal lobby groups like the Howard League and the Prison Reform Trust and senior civil servants Even Parliament was kept at a respectful distance and public opinion on important penal questions like capital punishment was taken to be something that had to be managed and circumvented rather than acted upon Penal Policy and Political Culture in England and Wales looks at challenges to this cosy elite policy making world first from below as prisoners groups such as PROP and victims groups like Women Against Rape demanded their say in the 1970s and 1980s and then later as the New Right deliberately mobilised public opinion around penal questions as a mechanism to support its harsh social and economic policies in the 1980s and 1990s Governing Risk M. Hardy, 2015-01-30 Drawing on Foucault's later work on governmentality this book traces the effects of the rise of risk on contemporary social work practice Focusing on two domains of practice mental health social work and probation work it analyses the ways in which risk thinking has affected social work's aims and objectives methods and approaches

Understanding Penal Practice Ioan Durnescu, Fergus McNeill, 2013-10-30 Criminological and penological scholarship has in recent years explored how and why institutions and systems of punishment change and how and why these changes differ in different contexts Important though these analyses are this book focuses not so much on the changing nature of institutions and systems but rather the changing nature of penal practice and practitioners Bringing together leading researchers from around the world this collection unites studies that aim to describe and critically analyse penal practice with studies that investigate its effectiveness and prescribe its future development Reversing penology's usual preoccupation with the prison the book focuses mainly on penal practice in the community i.e. on probation parole offender supervision and community corrections The first part of the book focuses on understanding practice and practitioners exploring how changing social cultural political and organisational contexts influence practice and how training development professional socialisation and other factors influence practitioners The second part is concerned with how practitioners can be best supported to develop the skills and approaches that seem most likely to generate positive impacts It contains accounts of new practice models and approaches as well as reports of research projects seeking both to discover and to encourage effective practices This book explores internationally significant and cutting edge theoretical and empirical work on the cultures practices roles and impacts of frontline practitioners in delivering penal sanctions As such it will be of interest to researchers in criminology social work and social policy as well as correctional policy makers and those involved in community supervision

Policy Networks in Criminal Justice M. Ryan, S. Savage, D. Wall, 2001-09-05 Policy Networks in Criminal Justice is a comprehensive and challenging collection of studies on the workings of pressure groups in criminal justice and the articulation of pressure group politics and criminal justice policymaking Against a back cloth of policy networks theory the authors examine the role and activities of professional associations in the areas of policing probation law and the courts together with campaigning groups such as those in the areas of penal reform civil liberties and victims In addition the book includes a study of the growing role of local authorities in the world of criminal justice

The Voluntary Sector and Criminal Justice Anthea Hucklesby, Mary Corcoran, 2016-02-09 The voluntary sector has a long history of involvement in criminal justice by providing a variety of services to offenders and their families victims and witnesses This collection brings together leading experts to provide critical reflections and cutting edge research on the contemporary features of voluntary sector work in criminal justice At a time when the voluntary sector's role is being transformed this book examines the dynamic nature of the voluntary sector and its responses to current uncertainties and some of the conflicting positions with regards to its present and future role in criminal justice work It also examines the potential impact of economic political and ideological trends on the role and remit of voluntary sector organisations which undertake criminal justice work

Ethical Issues in Social Work Richard Hugman, David Smith, 2002-09-09 It has always been recognised that the practice of social work raises ethical questions and dilemmas Recently however traditional ways of addressing ethical issues in social work have come to seem inadequate as a result of developments both in philosophy and in social work theory and practice This collection of thought provoking essays explores the ethics of social work practice on the light of these changes Ethical Issues in Social Work provides up to date critical analyses of the ethical implications of new legislation in community care and criminal justice and of trends in social work thought and policy such as managerialism user empowerment feminism and anti oppressive practice This study provides important and stimulating reading for social work students and their teachers and for all practitioners and managers who are concerned about the ethical dimensions of their work

Constructive Work with Offenders Nigel Parton, Marilyn Gregory, Michelle Hayles, Kevin Gorman, 2006-01-27 This book offers a challenge to many of the assumptions of criminal justice policy and the dominant approaches to practice The contributors advocate an emphasis on constructive work with offenders that harnesses their positive strengths and resources and offers inclusive approaches to effective offender assessment and intervention

Working with Offenders Gill McIvor, 1996 Contributors to this book review

developments in social work practice locating them in the context of changes in U K penal policy David Smith examines the relationship between policy and practice in the Probation Service illustrating how policy has often been preceded by practice initiatives from within the Service George Mair argues that the past 10 years have been a period of unprecedented change characterised by greater accountability and central control Gill McIvor describes developments within social work departments in Scotland particularly the introduction of full central government funding of statutory social work services and the development of associated national objectives and standards Breidge Gadd describes the Northern Ireland Probation Board as characterized by its commitment to a range of community supervision programmes by its customer oriented service delivery and by its links between probation officers and their communities Anne Worrals reports on gender stereotyping of women by the courts women are more likely to be referred for reports and more likely to be placed on probation Duncan Lawrence illustrates how white probation officers explanations of offending by black clients frequently differ from those offered by the clients themselves and discusses how appropriate groupwork provision for black and other minority clients can be developed Bryan Williams and Anne Creamer describe the increased use of prediction tools despite the fact that aggregate measures are inaccurate in predicting individual behaviour Mary Baker discusses the development of social work services for sex offenders and concludes that cognitive behavioural methods are more successful George Mair describes and discusses the development of the intensive probation movements in England and the United States and drawing on Home Office evaluations of UK projects concludes that intensive probation has been generally successful Hine and Thomas examine the extent to which Community Service orders have met the diverse aims proposed for them Tony Martin reviews the development of reparation and mediation programs in various parts of the world and comments on the difficulties involved in evaluating them Brian Williams looks at the growth of social work services in prisons particularly anger management and sex offender programs and comments on the uncertainty of future prison based probation work In the last chapter Peter Raynor argues for the development of evaluative research methodologies which focus on the process of intervention and which draw upon a range of outcome measures

Professionalism, Boundaries and the Workplace Nigel Malin, 2002-01-04

Hodgson,Zoë Irving,2007-11-21 Identifies key topics within the policy arena and subjects them to sustained theoretical and practical appraisal This book explores the development of the meaning and language of policy and examines its practice from the micro to the supra national levels using case studies to demonstrate how policy is contested shaped and accounted for Offenders or Citizens? Philip Priestley,Maurice Vanstone,2012-12-06 The punitive prison currently dominates the practice of Anglo American criminal justice stigmatising its victims as perpetual offenders and failing to change a majority of them for the better Books of academic readings sometimes profess neutrality over the controversies they invigilate Offenders or Citizens sits on no such fences its pages reflect the fiercely partisan nature of the contest between rehabilitation and punishment Probation social work youth justice law corrections criminology journalism philosophy politics popular culture psychology anthropology and sociology the voices of participants professionals and writers from many realms are all represented in this lively selection Its aim to stimulate and furnish a debate about the proper place of rehabilitation within a plural morally defensible and effective response to crime This book will be essential reading for both students and practitioners within criminal justice who have an interest in the rehabilitation of convicted individuals and providing an essential broader context to the what works debate

Alternatives to Imprisonment in England and Wales, Germany and Turkey Öznur Sevdiren,2011-02-24 The book focuses on one of the most problematic areas of Turkish penal justice the overreliance on custodial measures and a corresponding growth in the prison population and compares Turkey with two major European countries in this respect England and Wales and Germany The underlying question throughout the study is the extent to which prison alternatives can be seen as genuine alternatives to immediate custodial sentences

Prisons and the Voluntary Sector Shane Bryans,Roma Walker,2002-03-31 The book that launched the UK Prison Service initiative to involve the voluntary sector in the running of its prisons Contains details which will enable both parties to understand what is involved the history of voluntary work in prisons which dates back several hundred years and how to set about devising a scheme or promoting an idea

Constructive Work with Offenders Kevin Gorman,2006 Constructive Work with Offenders offers a challenge to many of the assumptions of criminal justice policy and the dominant approaches to practice The contributors advocate an emphasis on constructive work with offenders that harnesses their positive strengths and resources and offers inclusive approaches to effective offender assessment and intervention Taking a fresh look at much received knowledge they proclaim that constructive work with offenders is both possible and increasingly warranted and encourage practitioners to develop new skills and adapt existing expertise to the rapidly changing requirements of the criminal justice system This book will be of interest to practitioners trainers managers and researchers in the criminal justice system as well as academics and students in the field of criminology and related disciplines Ethics, Accountability and the Social Professions Sarah Banks, 2018-06-26 This book explores the far reaching ethical implications of recent changes in the organization and practice of the social professions social work community and youth work drawing on moral philosophy professional ethics and new empirical research by the author What does the development of external regulation and audit mean for the autonomy discretion and creativity of practitioners How does inter professional working in community mental health youth offending or neighbourhood regeneration challenge conceptions of professional identities and roles What relevance does an ethics of proximity care or virtue have for professional ethics alongside more abstract principle based approaches The Sociology of the Caring Professions Pamela Abbott, Liz Meerabeau, 1998 This text discusses the role of the caring professions and reforms in the welfare state assessing the impact on organizational roles and relationships It should be of value to those studying sociology social policy nursing and social work Racism and Anti-Racism in Probation David Denney, 2004-01-14 Racism and Anti Racism in Probation analyses the complex processes by which black people are treated differentially by the probation service Drawing on detailed ethnographic material David Denney shows how conventions used by probation officers can discriminate against black people He considers the implications of recent changes in penal policy on the development of probation work and considers how future developments may lead to an anti racist form of probation practice
