Problem Of The Text Of Acts:

The Problem of the Text of Acts W. A. Strange, 1992-04-02 In the book of Acts the so called Western text departs from the alternative text in numerous points of detail These divergences in the textual tradition of Acts have been the subject of renewed interest in recent years with a notable concentration on Lucan traits in the Western text The author of this study takes into account recent theories which have been proposed on the textual tradition of Acts and puts forward an ingenious thesis not considered hitherto to explain the existence of two streams of textual tradition for the book Analysis of a number of Western textual variants in Acts suggests that they may have arisen from the incorporation of marginal annotations into the text of Acts but Lucan thought and language is indeed characteristic of these readings Investigation of the non Western textual tradition uncovers occasional signs of editing according to the interests of the second century church From this evidence Dr Strange proposes that Acts shared the fate of numerous other works of antiquity by being published posthumously the work of two second century editors is responsible for the remarkable divergence in the textual tradition of Acts

Expectations of the End Albert Hogeterp, 2010-01-01 Since a fuller range of Qumran sectarian and not clearly sectarian texts and recensions has recently become available to us its implications for the comparative study of eschatological apocalyptic and messianic ideas in the Dead Sea Scrolls and in the New Testament need to be explored anew This book situates eschatological ideas in Qumran literature between biblical tradition and developments in late Second Temple Judaism and examines how the Qumran evidence on eschatology resurrection apocalypticism and messianism illuminates Palestinian Jewish settings of emerging Christianity The present study challenges previous dichotomies between realized and futuristic eschatology wisdom and apocalypticism and provides many new insights into intra Jewish dimensions to eschatological ideas in Palestinian Judaism and in the early Jesus movement

Scribes, Motives, and Manuscripts Alan Mugridge, 2024-08-02 In this volume Alan Mugridge reviews claims that scribes of New Testament manuscripts altered the text of their copies to further their own beliefs to stop people using them to support opposing beliefs or for some other purpose He discusses the New Testament passages about which these claims are made in detail noting their context exegesis and supporting manuscripts He concludes that while a small number of such claims are valid most are doubtful because unless a scribe's habits are clear in one manuscript we cannot know how the changes came about why they were made who made them and when they were made He argues that the bulk of the erroneous readings in New Testament manuscripts reviewed were made by scribal slips during the copying process and not in order to further anyone's personal agenda adding strength to the reliability of the Greek New Testament text available today despite the need to refine current editions to be as close as possible to the original text Can Do Problem Solving Year 1 Teacher's Book Cathy

Waldron,2014-08-11 Malevolence and its causes has been central to film since its inception the birth of film coinciding with a fascination with crime death murder horror etc Films which address the problem of evil however are less frequent and fewer in quantity especially films which respond to a body of thought philosophical or theological which has deliberated on the topic of evil over the centuries Cinema and Evil Moral Responsibility and the Dangerous Film addresses these films It explores the legacy of evil from Manicheanism to Arendt assessing the alternative definitions offered by philosophers theologians and writers per se on its problematic status It then considers how the films of filmmakers such as Fritz Lang Orson Welles Pier Paolo Pasolini Michael Haneke Gus Van Sant and Lynne Ramsay have responded to the problem of evil in their films In case by case studies filmmakers response to evil events whether those such as the Holocaust or Columbine in which evil is used as a descriptor for human behaviour is explored The book refers to these as dangerous films tasking us with the need to consider evil as a problem which is also our responsibility It argues that these filmmakers have been at the forefront of ethical deliberation on evil
