Problem Of Universals:

The Problem of Universals in Contemporary Philosophy Gabriele Galluzzo, Michael J. Loux, 2015-07-16 Are there any universal entities Or is the world populated only by particular things The problem of universals is one of the most fascinating and enduring topics in the history of metaphysics with roots in ancient and medieval philosophy This collection of new essays provides an innovative overview of the contemporary debate on universals Rather than focusing exclusively on the traditional opposition between realism and nominalism the contributors explore the complexity of the debate and illustrate a broad range of positions within both the realist and the nominalist camps Realism is viewed through the lens of the distinction between constituent and relational ontologies while nominalism is reconstructed in light of the controversy over the notion of trope The result is a fresh picture of contemporary metaphysics in which traditional strategies of dealing with the problem of universals are both reaffirmed and called into question The Problem of Universals Andrew B. Schoedinger, 1992 The Problem of Universals in Early Modern Philosophy Stefano Di Bella, Tad M. Schmaltz, 2017 This is a collection of essays from an international group of scholars that explore the ways in which the ancient problem of universals was transformed in modern philosophy Essays consider the various forms of Platonism conceptualism and nominalism in the writings of a broad range of modern thinkers The Problem of Universals from Boethius to John of Salisbury Roberto Pinzani, 2018-06-12 The problem of universals is one of the main philosophical issues In this book the author reconstructs the history of the problem considering a selection of medieval representative texts and authors The source of medieval and postmedieval debate is identified in the Socratic Platonic survey on the definition of concepts In the Categories Aristotle discusses important topics concerning the relations that exist between logical terms In particular he establishes a kind of predication principle categorial terms have a certain predication relation if and only if some facts expressed by ordinary sentences hold The Categories also because of their particular disciplinary status halfway between logic and metaphysics leave a number of questions open Among these questions a particularly intriguing one is Porphyry's riddle are there genera and species And if there are such things what are they like Five Texts on the Mediaeval Problem of Universals Paul V. Spade, 1994-03-15 New translations of the central mediaeval texts on the problem of universals are presented here in an affordable edition suitable for use in courses in mediaeval philosophy history of mediaeval philosophy and universals Includes a concise Introduction glossary of important terms notes and bibliography The Problem of Universals Innocentius Maria Bochenski (OP), 1956 Duns Scotus and the Problem of Universals Todd Bates, 2010-08-26 John Duns Scotus d 1308 known as the subtle doctor among medieval schoolmen produced a formidable philosophical theology using and adapting an Aristotelian metaphysical framework Critical of Thomas Aquinas grand Summas Scotus died before producing a final synthesis of his own Indeed his work left in disarray for centuries has only recently become available in an edited format Contemporary metaphysics taking up the problem of universals treads on ground already well worked by Scotus Duns Scotus and the Problem of Universals shows how Scotus treatment of the problem of universals is both coherent and even by contemporary standards cogent Todd Bates recovers and sets out Scotus understanding of the structure of material substance reconstructs Scotus arguments for universals and haecceities and shows how Scotus theory applies to the metaphysics of the Incarnation This book makes an important contribution to a neglected but crucial area of Scotus scholarship

The Two Fundamental Problems of the Theory of Knowledge Karl Popper, 2014-05-01 In a letter of 1932 Karl Popper described Die beiden Grundprobleme der Erkenntnistheorie The Two Fundamental Problems of the Theory of Knowledge as a child of crises above all of the crisis of physics Finally available in English it is a major contribution to the philosophy of science epistemology and twentieth century philosophy generally The two fundamental problems of knowledge that lie at the centre of the book are the problem of induction that although we are able to observe only a limited number of particular events science nevertheless advances unrestricted universal statements and the problem of demarcation which asks for a separating line between empirical science and non science Popper seeks to solve these two basic problems with his celebrated theory of falsifiability arguing that the inferences made in science are not inductive but deductive science does not start with observations and proceed to generalise them but with problems which it attacks with bold conjectures The Two Fundamental Problems of the Theory of Knowledge is essential reading for anyone interested in Karl Popper in the history and philosophy of science and in the methods and theories of science itself

Resemblance Nominalism Gonzalo Rodriguez-Pereyra, 2002-07-04 Gardeners poets lovers and philosophers are all interested in the redness of roses but only philosophers wonder how it is that two different roses can share the same property Are red things red because they resemble each other Or do they resemble each other because they are red Since the 1970s philosophers have tended to favour the latter view and held that a satisfactory account of properties must involve the postulation of either universals or tropes But Gonzalo Rodriguez Pereyra revives the dormant alternative theory of resemblance nominalism showing first that it can withstand the attacks of such eminent opponents as Goodman and Armstrong and then that there are reasons to prefer it to its rival theories The clarity and rigour of his arguments will challenge metaphysicians to rethink their views on properties

Space and Fates of International Law Ekaterina Yahyaoui Krivenko, 2020-09-17 The book offers the first analysis of the influence exercised by the concept of space on the emergence and continuing operation of international law By adopting a historical perspective and analysing work of two central early modern thinkers Leibniz and Hobbes it offers a significant addition to a limited range of resources on early modern history of international law The book traces links between concepts of space universality human cognition law and international law in these two early modern thinkers in a comparative fashion Through this analysis the book demonstrates the dependency of the contemporary international law on the Hobbesian concept of space Although some Leibnizian elements continue to operate they are distorted This continuing operation of Leibnizian elements is explained by the inability of international law which is based on the Hobbesian concept of space to ensure universality of its normative foundation A Re-examination of the Problem of Universals Jimmy Berger, 2021 My aims in this project are to address what the problem of universals is to provide a comprehensive account of its major solutions to evaluate those solutions and to provide my own conclusions about the problem My primary thesis is that philosophers have been wrong to look for a universally applicable theory to account for the problem of universals and instead should accept the profound complexity of reality and develop more modest theories that are applicable in limited domains Ontology and the Ambitions of Metaphysics Thomas Hofweber, 2016-08-11 Many significant problems in metaphysics are tied to ontological questions but ontology and its relation to larger questions in metaphysics give rise to a series of puzzles that suggest that we don't fully understand what ontology is supposed to do nor what ambitions metaphysics can have for finding out about what reality is like Thomas Hofweber aims to solve these puzzles about ontology and consequently to make progress on four central metaphysical problems the philosophy of arithmetic the metaphysics of ordinary objects the problem of universals and the question of whether the reality is independent of us Crucial parts of the proposed solution involve considerations about quantification and its relationship to ontology the place of reference in natural languages the possibility of ineffable facts the extent of empirical evidence in metaphysics and whether metaphysics can be properly esoteric Overall Hofweber defends a rationalist account of arithmetic an empiricist picture in the philosophy of ordinary objects a restricted form of nominalism and realism about reality understood as all there is but idealism about reality understood as all that is the case He defends metaphysics as having some questions of fact that are distinctly its own with a limited form of autonomy from other parts of inquiry but rejects several metaphysical projects and approaches as being based on a mistake Modes of Referring and the Problem of Universals D. S. Shwayder, 1961

Universals Farhang Zabeeh, 2012-12-06 The primary purpose of this book is to depict the main features of the classical problem of universals in order to provide a better understanding of the various suggestions made by the moderns towards the solution of that problem The work is not historical however since knowledge of the history of the problem is essential for understanding the import of the new approach references are given to classical theories and interpretations are offered without any pretension that they are either exhaustive or final I have tried to argue that the problem though often appearing in metaphysical guise is in fact part of the more general problem of semantics i.e. the relation between words and the world The medieval theory that universals are the meaning of general words is linked here with a recent theory that the meaning of a word is explainable in terms of its function and not in terms of its putative denotation What comes of this fusion is this that if the medieval theory that universals are the meaning of general words is in any way credible then to know the meaning of such words requires close attention to their functions on the ground that words in general do not mirror the world rather they are tools used to change it The Problem of Universals, 1956 Kant's Metaphysics and Theory of Science Gottfried Martin, 1955 Problems in Epistemology and Metaphysics Steven B. Cowan, 2020-02-06 Problems in Epistemology and Metaphysics takes a pro and con approach to two central philosophical topics. Each chapter begins with a question: Can We Have Knowledge? How are Beliefs Justified? What is the mind? Contemporary philosophers with opposing viewpoints are then paired together to argue their position and raise problems with conflicting standpoints. Alongside an up-to-date introduction to a core philosophical stance, each contributor provides a critical response to their opponent and a clear explanation of their view. Discussion questions are included at the end of each chapter to guide further discussion. With chapters covering core questions surrounding religious beliefs, scientific knowledge, truth, being, and reality, this is a comprehensive introduction to debates lying at the heart of what we know, how we know it, and the nature of the world we live in.
