The USS Swordfish George J. Billy, 2020-01-17 Among the more than 260 American submarines that patrolled the Pacific during World War II the USS Swordfish in 1941 was the first to sink

a Japanese armed merchant ship marking the beginning of the submarine's colorful history. A series of seven commanders led Swordfish's 13 war patrols. Each skipper had a distinct leadership style. Some were successful in sinking enemy ships; others returned to port empty handed. Yet all patrols risked dangerously close encounters with the enemy and the unforgiving nature of the open sea. Drawing on archival sources and interviews with veteran sailors, this first full length history of the Swordfish provides detailed accounts of each patrol and covers the mysterious disappearance of the legendary submarine on its final mission.

The Conduct of Hostilities in International Humanitarian Law, Volume I Wolff Heintschel von Heinegg, 2023-06-14. This volume is the first of two addressing the legal regime governing the use of force during armed conflicts. Traditionally labeled Hague Law, today the norms it examines are commonly referred to as conduct of hostilities rules. At the heart of this body of law is the principle of distinction which requires that civilians and civilian objects be distinguished from combatants and military objectives during military operations. It is the purest expression of the foundational balance between humanitarian considerations and military necessity that has underpinned international humanitarian law since its inception. The essays selected consider the theoretical and practical difficulties of maintaining the balance in the face of evolving means and methods of warfare and competing perspectives as to how it is best achieved. Also addressed is the law governing warfare at sea and in the air. Essays focusing on the former examine early norms and analyze their continuing relevance to today's maritime operations whilst those exploring the latter inject much needed clarity into the subject, an essential task in light of the centrality of aerial warfare in modern combat operations.

When the Shooting Stopped Barrett Tillman, 2022-04-14. Highly recommended as a sobering but enlightening account. Richard B. Frank, author of Downfall: The End of the Japanese Empire. In the 44 months between December 1941 and August 1945, the Pacific Theater absorbed the attention of the American nation and military longer than any other. Despite the Allied grand strategy of Germany first, after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, the U.S. especially was committed to confronting Tokyo as a matter of urgent priority. But from Oahu to Tokyo was a long sanguinary slog averaging an advance of just three miles per day. The U.S. human toll paid on that road reached some 108,000 battle deaths, more than one third the U.S. wartime total. But by the summer of 1945, on both the American homefront and on the frontline, there was hope. The stunning announcements of atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki on August 6 and 9 seemed sure to force Tokyo over the tipping point since the Allies' surrender demand from Potsdam. Germany, in July, what few understood was the vast gap in the cultural ethos of East and West at that time. In fact, most of the Japanese cabinet refused to surrender and vicious dogfights were still waged in the skies above Japan. This fascinating new history tells the dramatic story of the final weeks of the war, detailing the last brutal battles on air, land, and sea, with evocative first hand accounts from pilots and sailors caught up in these extraordinary events. Barrett Tillman then expertly details the first weeks of a tenuous peace and the drawing of battle lines with the forthcoming Cold War as Soviet forces concluded their invasion of Manchuria. When the Shooting Stopped retells these dramatic events.

drawing on accounts from all sides to relive the days when the war finally ended and the world was forever changed

The Men Stephen Leal Jackson, 2010 Submarine duty during World War II was one of the most statistically deadly physically demanding and emotionally challenging assignments in the U S Navy The boats had few crew comforts and war patrols typically thirty to sixty days in length were so exhausting that the submarine sailors often got a month of rest after each patrol What would motivate men to volunteer for this unmistakably difficult and dangerous job This is the question that The Men will answer using the oral histories of enlisted submarine veterans a collection of letters of one sailor who did not return and other primary sources These volunteers from diverse locales and backgrounds ignored the danger accepted the privations and exalted in the camaraderie Their excitement fear and humble heroism is captured in their own words the real story of the undersea war in the Pacific told by the men who fought it A veteran of the United States Navy Stephen Leal Jackson spent eight years in the submarine force serving on the USS Los Angeles SSN 688 and the USS Florida SSBN 728 Jackson's service included several Western Pacific cruises to the oceans lands and ports described in The Men A lifelong student of American history Jackson's ongoing research concentrates specifically on World Wars I and II Jackson received his Master of Arts in American History from Providence College and is currently in the Ph D program at Salve Regina University Jackson has served as the primary spokesperson for a major electrical utility on nuclear and environmental issues His unique perspective as a onetime navy enlisted submariner trained historian and skilled communicator allows Jackson to provide clear and easy access to the fascinating experiences of the men who fought the undersea battles during World War II
