Dragoslav Srejskić,1977 Museums in Yugoslavia Milica Djordjevic,1968 Post-Yugoslav Metamuseums Nataša Jagdhuhn,2022-09-20 This book analyzes how Second World War heritage is being reframed in the memorial museums of the post socialist post conflict states of Croatia Bosnia and Herzegovina and Serbia It argues that in all three countries a reluctance to confront undesirable parts of their national histories is the root cause explaining why the state funded Second World War memorial museums remain stuck in the postsocialist transition In most cases Second World War museums exhibitions and displays conceived in the Yugoslav period have been left unchanged However there are also examples where new sections were added to the old ones and there are a small number of completely reconceptualized permanent exhibitions The transitional position of the Second World War museums has made it possible to view these institutions as historical formations in their own right The book will appeal to students and academics working in the fields of heritage and museums studies memory studies and cultural history of Southeast Europe Transforming Heritage in the Former Yugoslavia Gruia Bădescu,Britt Baillie,Francesco Mazzucchelli,2021-08-11 Heritage became a target during the Yugoslav Wars as part of ethnic cleansing and urbicide Out of the ashes of war pasts were remodelled places took on new layers of meaning and a wave of new memorialization took hold Three decades since the fall of Vukovar and the end of the siege of Sarajevo and more than a decade since Kosovo s Declaration of Independence conflict has shifted from armed confrontations to battles about the past The former Yugoslavia has been described on the one hand as a bastion of plurality and multiculturalism and on the other as a territory of antagonism and radical nationalisms echoing imaginaries and narratives relevant to Europe as a whole With Croatia having entered the EU in 2013 and the continuous political contestation in the region wounds in the memory fabric of the former Yugoslavia have once more come to the world s attention Thus there is the question what will happen when the former republics are reunited once more under the EU umbrella itself beset by increasing populisms nationalisms and the looming prospects of territorial fragmentation This collection scrutinizes the role of heritage in conflict time inquires what role the past might have in creating new identities at the local regional national and supra national levels and investigates the dynamics of heritage as a process Pamphlets about Museums in Yugoslavia , The Directory of Museums & Living Displays Kenneth Hudson,Ann Nicholls,1985-06-18 Occupation and Communism in Eastern European Museums Constantin Iordachi,Péter Apor,2021-07-29 This volume offers fresh perspectives on the representation of the recent past in museums of the Second World War and of communism in post communist Eastern Europe It does so against the background of recent European wide debates on history memory and politics The contributors from across Europe focus comparatively on a wide variety of case studies pointing out similarities and differences and accounting for transnational patterns of remembrance at regional and European level Occupation and Communism in Eastern European Museums argues that museums have a huge influence on the image of the communist past in Eastern Europe It shows how they use a vast array of media tools visual tactics and commercial strategies in order to substantiate ideological approaches to the past and to shape the attitude of public opinion Museums and Nationalism in Croatia, Hungary, and Turkey Lorenzo

Posocco,2021-11-08 Museums and Nationalism in Croatia Hungary and Turkey draws attention to museums as political productions of the nation state and shows how they can be shaped by the political forces that rule a country Drawing on case studies and interviews from Croatia Hungary and Turkey the book investigates how the past has been exploited to serve the interests of nationalism in the twenty first century and how museums themselves are exploited to serve nationalist ideologies Posocco argues that in a world of nation states where nationalism is the dominant ideology all museums are national museums even when they aren t In this perspective they can and do in the case studies under analysis in this book become the cultural offshoots of political wars places where the national past is contested rewritten and sometimes even created from scratch and finally exhibited Paying particular attention to the decision making and economic aspects of the museum the book also examines the micro sociological and political aspects which will be the foundation for further reflections on the macro dynamics of museum making in other countries and contexts Museums and Nationalism in Croatia Hungary and Turkey provides rare and interesting insights into how museums materialise culture in the service of nationalism The book will be of interest to those engaged in the study of museums heritage nationalism memory and politics as a result
