Probation Services In The Administration Of Criminal Justice:

Annual Report of the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts United States. Administrative Office of the United States Courts, Black Women's Experiences of Criminal Justice Ruth Chigwada-Bailey, 2003 A personal discourse on the multiple disadvantages of people who are black women and from the margins of society Journal of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology ,1917 Impending Challenges to Penal Moderation in France and Germany Kirstin Drenkhahn, Fabien Jobard, Tobias Singelnstein, 2023-07-27 This book investigates the penal culture in France and Germany how it is shaped in politics media and public opinion Although compared with the US or the UK France and Germany seem to place a strong emphasis on the ideal of rehabilitation that would block excessive punishment and other outcomes of punitive developments in society there is a steady increase in punitiveness over time for which the term strained restraint is proposed The book shows that the idea of penal moderation is deeply rooted in public opinion politics and the media and that it is renegotiated every day in a dynamic interplay between these spheres Punishment and society research has traditionally focused on the US and the UK In comparative research both are considered extreme in punitive developments with high rates of imprisonment and large groups of the population under penal control The other extreme in comparative research would be Scandinavia with the famous Nordic Exceptionalism marked by low prison population rates Germany and France are often considered to be the same when compared with each other and the other with reference to both of these extremes However this book shows that France and Germany are far from being the same when it comes to state organization centralistic vs federal criminal justice and the criminal law political traditions and the media Also research from both countries has looked at whether developments such as the punitive turn have occurred in Germany and France Research focused on the domestic situation concludes that punitiveness is on the rise and that both countries are indeed experiencing their own punitive turn How do we reconcile these contradictory findings Why do these two seem to follow the path of penal moderation in the overall outcome of punishment in society when we look at comparative research And how is it that from a domestic perspective punitive attitudes and desires are leading to more punitiveness By focusing on the meso level with a comparative perspective on the two countries and a dynamic analytical approach this book reconciles the fluidity of individual attitudes and opinions with the relative stability of societal discourse The authors posit that penal moderation comes at a price overall and in an internationally comparative perspective there is penal moderation but a closer look at the domestic situation and development reveals that it is nonetheless challenged by a slowly rising tide of punitiveness Going beyond the main tenets of punishment and society research with a dynamic analysis of two large societies in Europe this book is ideal reading for scholars and students of penology criminal justice and European studies Report on the Cost of Administration of Criminal Justice ... United States.
